everyone has memories of their school days this book gives young children access to people s memories alongside photographs to help them build up a picture of the past from nursery education to the transition to secondary school young children can explore what has changed and what remains the same the book is part of the tell me what you remember series which explores changes in living memory through photographs and memories tell me what you remember and i ll tell you who you are with this challenge psychologist psychotherapist patrick estrade introduces his groundbreaking method to analyze and interpret childhood memories such memories are widely recognized as keys that unlock our internal world direct our actions and determine the choices we make but unlike dreams memories are often neglected because we have no clearly established system for interpreting them you are what you remember delineates estrade s techniques for bringing our memories to consciousness and understanding how they inform our existence all the end of developing a fuller more satisfying life and relationships you are a being of love who has embarked on an adventure to better know yourself through this amazing world of contrasts every uncomfortable or difficult experience has been an opportunity to further your understanding of that which is love the pegasus group a group of high light beings adds their voice to many who say that this is a special time of awakening a time when each person will remember with their inner being and begin to more fully express their loving nature when you remember is a practical guide to connecting with your inner being or higher self in order to access its wisdom learn to truly love yourself and then express the love that you are out into the world it includes easy to follow exercises and meditations that will assist you in changing beliefs that are holding you back releasing past traumas improving relationships and gradually increasing your loving vibration and with every upward shift of your vibration you will be contributing to a more loving and peaceful world the adventure begins now in her award winning book harmful to minors judith levine radically upended our fixed ideas about childhood now she tackles the other end of life in this poignant memoir of a daughter coming to terms with a difficult father who is sinking into dementia presenting an insightful exploration of the ways we think about disability aging and the self as it resides in the body and the world in prose that is unsentimental yet moving serious yet darkly funny complex in emotion and ideas yet spare in diction levine reassembles her father s personal and professional history even as he is losing track of it she unpeels the layers of his complicated personality and uncovers information that surprises even her mother to whom her father has been married for more than sixty years as her father deteriorates the family consensus about who he was and is and how best to care for him constantly threatens to collapse levine recounts the painful discussions mad outbursts and gingerly negotiations and dissects the shifting alliances among family friends and a changing guard of hired caretakers spending more and more time with her father she confronts a relationship that has long felt bereft of love by caring for his needs she learns to care about and slowly to love him while levine chronicles these developments she looks outside her family for the sources of their perceptions and expectations deftly weaving politics science history and philosophy into their personal story a memoir opens up to become a critique of our culture s attitudes toward the elderly a claustrophobic account of alzheimer s is transformed into a complex lesson about love duty and community what creates a self and keeps it whole levine insists that only the collaboration of others can safeguard her father s self against the riddling of his brain embracing interdependence and vulnerability not autonomy and productivity as the seminal elements of our humanity levine challenges herself and her readers to find new meaning even hope in one man s mortality and our own alice taylor remembers her childhood home the farm with all its tools and animals the home with its equipment for living its daily challenges constant hard work and its comforts too she describes the huge open fireplace where all the cooking was done where the big black kettle hung permanently from the crane over the flames here the family sat in the evenings talking knitting going over the events of the day saying the rosary she experienced the sow being brought indoors to have her precious brood of bonhams she recalls the faithful beloved horses and their wonderfully varied outfits one set of tackle for each job they did on the farm the ritual of lighting the oil lamps from the fancy one in the parlour to the tiny one under the sacred heart picture the excitement of threshing day and the satisfaction of a good harvest the stations the neighbours and later the local dancehall and cinema all the jobs and tools of a way of life long gone live on in the hearts of those who were formed by it here alice taylor celebrates them all with love magical reading the book i felt a faint ache in my heart i find myself longing for those days it is essential reading irish independent in do you remember celebrating fifty years of earth wind fire trenton bailey traces the humble beginning of maurice white his development as a musician and his formation of earth wind fire a band that became a global phenomenon during the 1970s by the early 1980s the music industry was changing and white had grown weary after working constantly for more than a decade he decided to put the band on hiatus for more than three years the band made a comeback in 1987 but white s health crisis soon forced them to tour without him during the twenty first century the band has received numerous accolades and lifetime achievement and hall of fame awards the band remains relevant today collaborating with younger artists and maintaining their classic sound earth wind fire stood apart from other soul bands with their philosophical lyrics and extravagant visual art much of which is studied in the book including album covers concerts and music videos the lyrics of hit songs are examined alongside an analysis of the band s chart success earth wind fire has produced twenty one studio albums and several compilation albums each album is analyzed for content and quality earth wind fire is also known for using ancient egyptian symbols and bailey thoroughly details those symbols and maurice white s fascination with egyptology after enduring many personnel changes earth wind recipe for passion and conflict nan is a middle aged tennis coach at an upstate new york community college and spends her evenings watching old movies with her mother who is slowly slipping into dementia then a co worker sets nan up on a date with matt the incoming poet in residence he s handsome in a james mason way and very intelligent but nan senses something beneath that surface of course she s been sensing that with every man since her husband of more than twenty years confessed that he was gay and left her in matt s case the secret he s hiding is that he has an estranged son who has accused him of abuse based on recovered memories since matt won t talk about it nan finds the son s therapist and poses as a new patient to find out if the woman is brainwashing her patients or if matt really is abusive what follows spins nan s world out of control and puts her own ailing mother s life in danger all because the therapist has a secret so dark she keeps it even from herself new york times bestseller a fascinating exploration of the intricacies of how we remember why we forget and what we can do to protect our memories from the harvard trained neuroscientist and bestselling author of still alice using her expertise as a neuroscientist and her gifts as a storyteller lisa genova explains the nuances of human memory steven pinker johnstone professor of psychology harvard university author of how the mind works have you ever felt a crushing wave of panic when you can t for the life of you remember the name of that actor in the movie you saw last week or you walk into a room only to forget why you went there in the first place if you re over forty you re probably not laughing you might even be worried that these lapses in memory could be an early sign of alzheimer s or dementia in reality for the vast majority of us these examples of forgetting are completely normal why because while memory is amazing it is far from perfect our brains aren t designed to remember every name we hear plan we make or day we experience just because your memory sometimes fails doesn t mean it s broken or succumbing to disease forgetting is actually part of being human in remember neuroscientist and acclaimed novelist lisa genova delves into how memories are made and how we retrieve them you ll learn whether forgotten memories are temporarily inaccessible or erased forever and why some memories are built to exist for only a few seconds like a passcode while others can last a lifetime your wedding day you ll come to appreciate the clear distinction between normal forgetting where you parked your car and forgetting due to alzheimer s that you own a car and you ll see how memory is profoundly impacted by meaning emotion sleep stress and context once you understand the language of memory and how it functions its incredible strengths and maddening weaknesses its natural vulnerabilities and potential superpowers you can both vastly improve your ability to remember and feel less rattled when you inevitably forget you can set educated expectations for your memory and in doing so create a better relationship with it you don t have to fear it anymore and that can be life changing this is a true story about my life my struggles trials and tribulations and how i overcame them no matter what i have gone through with my ex husband and that abuse the family member who raped me the homeless shelter that me and my three children were in not only i am strong but i am also a prayer warrior a woman falls in love with a man who harbors a strange secret he s been accused
