Ruby Nell Bridges Hall born September 8, 1954, is an American civil rights activist. She was the first African American child to attend formerly whites-only William Frantz Elementary School in Louisiana during the New Orleans school desegregation crisis on November 14, 1960. Ruby Bridges was born in Tylertown, Mississippi. She is an American activist who became a symbol of the civil rights movement and who was at age six the youngest of a group of African American students to integrate schools in the American South. At the tender age of six, Ruby Bridges advanced the cause of civil rights in November 1960 when she became the first African American student to integrate an elementary school in the South. Born on September 8, 1954, Bridges was the oldest of five children for Lucille and Abon Bridges Farmers in Tylertown, Mississippi. She was six when she became the first African American child to integrate a white southern elementary school on November 14, 1960. She was escorted to class by her mother on the morning of November 14, 1960. A little girl named Ruby Bridges got dressed and left for school at just six years old. Ruby became the first Black child to desegregate the all-white William Frantz Elementary School in New Orleans. Ruby was 6 years old when she received national attention for desegregating an elementary school in New Orleans.
