experiential family counseling is an action oriented approach to family therapy through the use of structured games and physical and intellectual challenges many clinicians find that they are able to gain insight into the behaviors and responses that perpetuate a family s problems while traditional treatment methods often become bogged down in verbal sparring or blame placing between family members experiential counseling calls for families to work together to succeed in overcoming obstacles that are set before them and because many experiential activities can be designed as metaphors for a family s individual problems counselors using this treatment method are given an excellent opportunity to help families practice actual solutions that can be used in their daily interactions and experiences in sticking together jackie gerstein has given therapists and family counselors a wonderful tool for introducing experiential counseling into their own practices in addition to a thoughtful overview of the general uses and benefits of this unique technique she also provides practical guidelines for developing experiential family counseling sessions key features include a core section of experiential activities games and exercises for family therapy cautions that should be observed when using these activities with certain populations detailed processing questions with each exercise that can help families to interpret the results of experiential activities suggestions to encourage family goal setting a discussion on the need for ongoing assessment during the course of experiential therapy samples of important documents necessary in experiential therapy programs including performance agreements and informed consent forms with an easy to use format sticking together offers readers an extensive selection of family building initiatives that promise to introduce fun into the vocabulary of family therapy what is most strikingly new about the transcultural is its sudden ubiquity following in the wake of previous concepts in cultural and literary studies such as creolization hybridity and syncretism and signalling a family relationship to terms such as transnationality translocality and transmigration transcultural terminology has unobtrusively but powerfully edged its way into contemporary theoretical and critical discourse the four sections of this volume denote major areas where transcultural questions and problematics have come to the fore theories of culture and literature that have sought to account for the complexity of culture in a world increasingly characterized by globalization transnationalization and interdependence realities of individual and collective life worlds shaped by the ubiquity of phenomena and experiences relating to transnational connections and the blurring of cultural boundaries fictions in literature and other media that explore these realities negotiate the fuzzy edges of ethnic or national cultures and participate in the creation of transnational public spheres as well as transcultural imaginations and memories and finally pedagogy and didactics where earlier models of teaching other cultures are faced with the challenge of coming to terms with cultural complexity both in what is being taught and in the people it is taught to and where target cultures have become elusive the idea of locating culture and literature exclusively in the context of ethnicities or nations is rapidly losing plausibility throughout an english speaking world that has long since been multi rather than monolingual exploring the prospects and contours of transcultural english studies thus reflects a set of common challenges and predicaments that in recent years have increasingly moved centre stage not only in the new literatures in english but also in british and american studies radical new interpretation of celts and their way of life the congressional record is the leads inexorably to death the challenge for all hunters is how to justify the kill but the hunter s emotional response to the kill is immensely complex hunters respect and even love the animals they kill talking to the shaman within musings on hunting addresses this paradox head on dissecting the emotional and psychological response of the hunter to his quarry and more broadly his surroundings the climax of the chase brings the hunter closer to realizing the nature intelligence that modern civilization has suppressed through his investigation of the instinct that lies beneath the urge to hunt author manfred f r kets de vries reveals something basic and fundamental about human behavior the hunting instinct is hardwired into the human psyche and for all our sophistication and urbanization it exerts a powerful influence over the way we conduct our lives even to this day talking to the shaman within draws on depictions of hunting in art and literature throughout the ages exploring changing trends in human social norms with frequent reference to literature art film television and music it unites a dispassionate academic hypothesis with an engaging and colourful narrative into which kets de vries weaves stories from his own life as both an academic and a hunter the culture of hunting in canada covers elements of the history of hunting from the pre colonial period until the present in all parts of canada and features essays by practitioners and scholars of hunting and by pro and anti hunting lobbyists the result crosses the boundaries between scholarship and personal reflection and between academia and advocacy topics include hunting identities conservation and its relationship to hunting tensions between hunters and non hunters and between aboriginal and non aboriginal hunting groups hunting ethics debates over hunting practices and regulations animal rights and gun control this book makes an unprecedented contribution to the study of hunting in canada and its role in our culture presenting key examples and case studies of how design has responded to the pandemic design and covid 19 offers lessons and approaches to design for future resilience design has a key role to play in not only creating products to ensure safety from the pandemic but also in the creation of complex systems new technologies and physical environments that enable us to carry out our lives and protect populations in the future design and covid 19 identifies four key phases of the pandemic to examine how designers developed systems services communications and products as part of our response to the crisis whether at an international national or community level contributors report from a range of international contexts including countries in europe asia africa and australasia detailing how countries responded to the pandemic introduced social distancing and lockdowns developed test track and trace systems implemented new laws and how design and designers responded to the urgent new challenges that the pandemic created they explore the adaptation of designs as communities searched for new ways of connecting and working through restrictions and social distancing measures establishing local mutual aid groups and using social media to support each other through the pandemic and go on to focus on recovery and resilience analysing the deeper systemic design response as industries emerge from lockdown they explore the need to reflect on and investigate key issues in order to understand what we can learn personally socially economically and globally from this unprecedented crisis drawing upon the expertise of scholars from across the globe design and covid 19 explores a wide range of design disciplines to address the complex societal and global issues highlighted throughout the pandemic and to inform new ways of building human and planetary wellbeing the second edition of tigers of the world explores tiger biology ecology conservation management and the science and technology that make this possible in 1988 when the first edition was published tiger conservation was still in its infancy and two decades later there has been a revolution not only in what is known but how information about tigers is obtained and disseminated in the fast changing world of conservation there is a great need to summarize the vast and current state of the art to put this into historical perspective and to speculate in what yet remains to be done tigers of the world 2e fulfills this need by bringing together in a unique way the world's leading tiger experts into one volume despite the challenges ahead there are bright spots in this story and lessons aplenty not only for tiger specialists but literature and imagination the programs and the books he uses are kid tested and ready for you to share spanish missions in the new world usually pacified sedentary peoples accustomed to the agricultural mode of mission life prompting many scholars to generalize about mission history james saeger now reconsiders the effectiveness of the missions by examining how guaycuruan peoples of south america's gran chaco adapted to them during the eighteenth century because the guaycuruans were hunter gatherers less suited to an agricultural lifestyle their attitudes and behaviors can provide new insight about the impact of missions on native peoples responding to recent syntheses of the mission system saeger proposes that missions in the gran chaco did not fit the usual pattern through research in colonial documents he reveals the guaycuruan perspective on the missions thereby presenting an alternative view of guaycuruan history and the development of the mission system he investigates guaycuruan social economic political and religious life before the missions and analyzes subsequent changes he then traces guaycuruan history into the modern era and offers an assessment of what catholic missions meant to these peoples saeger's research into spanish documents is unique for its elicitation of the indian point of view he not only reconstructs guaycuruan life independent of spanish contact but also shows how these indians negotiated the conditions under which they would adapt to the mission way of life thereby retaining much of their independence by showing that the guaycuruans were not as restricted in missions as has been assumed saeger demonstrates that there is a distinct difference between the establishment of missions and conquest the chaco mission frontier helps redefine mission studies by correcting overgeneralization about their role in latin america technology has increasingly become utilized in classroom settings in order to allow students to enhance their experiences and understanding among such technologies that are being implemented into course work are game based learning programs introducing game based learning into the classroom can
