Extinct Monsters to Deep Time is an ethnography that documents the growing friction between the research and outreach functions of the museum in the 21st century. Marsh describes participant observation and historical research at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History as it prepared for its largest ever exhibit renovation. Deep Time as a museum ethnography: the book provides a grounded perspective on the inner workings of the world's largest natural history museum and the social processes of communicating science to the public.

Food Waste to Valuable Resources: Applications and Management compiles current information pertaining to food waste, placing particular emphasis on the themes of food waste management, biorefineries, valuable specialty products, and technoeconomic analysis. Following its introduction, this book explores new valuable resource technologies, the bioeconomy, the technoeconomical evaluation of food waste based biorefineries, and the policies and regulations related to a food waste based economy. It is an ideal reference for researchers and industry professionals working in the areas of food waste valorization, food science, and technology.

Food producers, policymakers, and NGOs, environmental technologists, environmental engineers, and students studying environmental engineering, food science, and more, presents recent advances trends and challenges related to food waste valorization contains invaluable knowledge on of food waste management biorefineries valuable specialty products and technoeconomic analysis highlights modern advances and applications of food waste bioresources in various products recovery addresses the band s resounding impact on how we think about gender popular culture and the formal and poetic qualities of music theory of electric polarization volume ii dielectrics in time dependent fields focuses on the processes reactions and principles involved in the application of dielectrics in time dependent fields as well as the kerr effect statistical mechanics and polarization the publication first examines the phenomenological theory of linear dielectrics in time dependent fields empirical description of dielectric relaxation and the relationship between macroscopic and molecular dielectric relaxation behavior concerns cover the relationship between macroscopic and microscopic correlation functions statistical mechanics of linear dissipative systems and the relationship between response functions and correlation functions superpositions of distribution functions and the use of complex dielectric constant in problems with time dependent field sources the book then ponders on the dipole correlation function polarization in the infrared and optical frequency range and the kerr effect and related phenomena discussions focus on the kerr effect in condensed systems extensions of the kerr effect extrapolation of the refractive index to infinite wavelength results obtained from computer simulations rotational diffusion and general aspects of molecular reorientation the manuscript tackles the dielectric properties of molecular solids and liquid crystals and experimental determination of permanent dipole and quadrupole moments the text is a valuable source of data for researchers interested in the application of dielectrics in time dependent fields includes a selection of published and unpublished papers introd this volume on the novelties in the electronic properties of solids appears in occasion of franco bassani sixtieth birthday and is dedicated to honour a scientific activity which has contributed so much of the development of this very active area of research it is re markable that this book can cover so large a part of the current research on electronic properties of solids by contributions from bassani s former students collaborators at different stages of his scientific life and physicists from all over the world who have been in close scientific relationship with him a personal flavour therefore accompanies a number of the papers of this volume which are both up to date reports on present research and original recollections of the early events of modern solid state physics the volume begins with a few contributions dealing with theoretical procedures for electronic energy levels a primary step toward the interpretation of structural and optical properties of extended and confined systems other papers concern the interacting state of electrons with light polaritons and the effect of the coupling of electrons with lattice vibrations with emphasis on the thermal behaviour of the electron levels and on such experimental procedures as piezospectroscopy electron lattice interaction in external magnetic field and transport related properties due to high light excitation are also considered the impact of synchrotron radiation on condensed matter spectroscopy is discussed in a topical contribution and optical measurements are presented for extended and impurity levels temporal divergence creates a need for new narratives and paradigms in diverging time david carvounas supports this assertion through detailed expository and diagnostic readings of kant hegel and marx he focuses on their contribution to our understanding of modernity as an epochal shift in the relationship between past and future recasting the significance of the past and future of the modern present despite their different solutions to the problem of temporal coordination they urged the modern world to look not to the past but to the newly opened future for continuity meaning and purpose this book not only offers a fresh look at a defining characteristic of modernity but also makes a compelling case that a coherent modern temporal structure requires a sustainable orientation toward the future an orientation that kant hegel and marx delineate in distinctive and powerful ways essentials in ophthalmology is a new review series covering all of ophthalmology categorized in eight subspecialties it will be published quarterly thus each subspecialty will be reviewed biannually given the multiplicity of medical publications already available why is a new series needed consider that the half life of medical knowledge is estimated to be around 5 years moreover it can be as long as 8 years between the first description of a medical innovation in a peer reviewed scientific journal and publication in a medical textbook a series that narrows this time span between journal and textbook would provide a more rapid and efficient transfer of medical knowledge into clinical practice and enhance care of our patients first published in 1995 part of the library of arabic linguistics series which devotes itself to all issues of arabic linguistics in all its manifestations on both the theoretical and applied levels the results of these studies will also be of use in the field of linguistics in general as well as related subjects this book is monography 11 and looks at modality mood and aspect in spoken arabic with special reference to egypt and the levant the reforms begun by luther and calvin became two of the largest and most influential movements to arise in the sixteenth century but frequently these two movements are seen and defined as polar opposites one s theology is reformed or lutheran one is a member of a reformed or lutheran congregation historically these were two very separate movements but more remains to be understood that can best be analyzed in the context of the other just as surely as the historical question of the boundaries between calvin and luther or lutheranism and calvinism must be answered with a resounding yes the ongoing doctrinal questions offer a different picture in the more systematic doctrinal articles an argument is forwarded that the broad confessional continuity between luther and calvin on the soteriological theme of union with christ offers still unexplored avenues to both deeper understandings of soteriology through such articles we begin to see the possibility of a rapprochement between calvin and luther as sources though not as historical figures but that insight allows the conversation to extend and bear far greater fruit contributors are j t billings ch helmer h p jürgens s c karant nunn r kolb th f latini g s pak j watt t j wengert p westermeyer and d m whitford this volume on the novelties in the electronic properties of solids appears in occasion of franco bassani sixtieth birthday and is dedicated to honour a scientific activity which has contributed so much of the development of this very active area of research it is remarkable that this book can cover so large a part of the current research on electronic properties of solids by contributions from bassani s former students collaborators at different stages of his scientific life and physicists from all over the world who have been in close scientific relationship with him a personal flavour therefore accompanies a number of the papers of this volume which are both up to date reports on present research and original recollections of the early events of modern solid state physics the volume begins with a few contributions dealing with theoretical procedures for electronic energy levels a primary step toward the interpretation of structural and optical properties of extended and confined systems other papers concern the interacting state of electrons with light polaritons and the effect of the coupling of electrons with lattice vibrations with emphasis on the thermal behaviour of the electron levels and on such experimental procedures as piezospectroscopy electron lattice interaction in external magnetic field and transport related properties due to high light excitation are also considered the impact of synchrotron radiation on condensed matter spectroscopy is discussed in a topical contribution and optical measurements are presented for extended and impurity levels temporal divergence creates a need for new narratives and paradigms in diverging time david carvounas supports this assertion through detailed expository and diagnostic readings of kant hegel and marx he focuses on their contribution to our understanding of modernity as an epochal shift in the relationship between past and future recasting the significance of the past and future of the modern present despite their different solutions to the problem of temporal coordination they urged the modern world to look not to the past but to the newly opened future for continuity meaning and purpose this book not only offers a fresh look at a defining characteristic of modernity but also makes a compelling case that a coherent modern temporal structure requires a sustainable orientation toward the future an orientation that kant hegel and marx delineate in distinctive and powerful ways
