this book is an introduction to theory in archaeology but with a difference archaeological situations avoids talking about theory as if it was something you apply but rather as something embedded in archaeological practice from the start rather than see theory as something worked from the outside in this book explores theory from the inside out which means it focuses on specific archaeological practices rather than specific theories it starts from the kinds of situations that students find themselves in and learn about in other archaeology courses avoiding the gap between practice and theory from the very beginning it shows students the theoretical implications of almost everything they engage in as archaeologists from fieldwork recording writing up and making and assessing an argument to exploring the very nature of archaeology and justifying its relevance essentially it adopts a structure which attempts to pre-empt one of the most common complaints of students taking theory courses how is this applicable aimed primarily at undergraduates this book is the ideal way to engage students with archaeological theory
