the stalin era has been less accessible to researchers than either the preceding decade or the postwar era the basic problem is that during the stalin years censorship restricted the collection and dissemination of information and introduced bias and distortion into the statistics that were published while in the post stalin years access to archives and libraries remained tightly controlled thus it is not surprising that one of the main manifestations of glasnost has been the effort to open up records of the 1930s in this volume western and soviet specialists detail the untapped potential of sources on this period of soviet social history and also the hidden traps that abound the full range of sources is covered from memoirs to official documents from city directories to computerized data bases

Bear Archery Traditional Bows 1989

Archery has been a popular sport for centuries, and traditional bows have been used for hunting and warfare. In 1989, the International Archery Federation (IAF) established the World Archery Federation (WA) to oversee the sport. The WA has since become the governing body for archery worldwide, and it has organized the World Archery Championships, the World Cup, and the World Team Cup. The WA also oversees the Olympic Games, where archery has been a part of the program since 1900. The WA has a membership of over 60,000 archers from over 100 countries. The WA is committed to promoting the sport of archery and to ensuring that it is a safe and enjoyable activity for all.

Archery has a long history, and it has been a part of the Olympic Games since 1900. The sport has become increasingly popular in recent years, and it is now one of the most popular sports in the world. The WA has been instrumental in the growth of the sport, and it has helped to establish archery as a major sport. The WA has also been successful in promoting the sport of archery and in ensuring that it is a safe and enjoyable activity for all.

the recent crisis in the world of antiquities collecting has prompted scholars and the general public to pay more attention than ever before to the archaeological findspots and collecting histories of ancient artworks this new scrutiny is applied to works currently on the market as well as to those acquired since and despite the 1970 unesco convention which aimed to prevent the trafficking in cultural property when it comes to famous works that have been in major museums for many generations however the matter of their origins is rarely considered canonical pieces like the barberini togatus or the fonseca bust of a flavian lady appear in many scholarly studies and virtually every textbook on roman art but we have no more certainty about these works archaeological contexts than we do about those that surface on the market today this book argues that the current legal and ethical debates over looting ownership and cultural property have distracted us from the epistemological problems inherent in all ostensibly ancient artworks lacking a known findspot problems that should be of great concern to those who seek to understand the past through its material remains
