for specialty hospice agencies and palliative care programs as well as generalist knowledge for schools of nursing oncology critical care and pediatric developed with the intention of emphasizing the need to extend palliative care beyond the specialty to be integrated in all settings and by all clinicians caring for the seriously ill this new edition will continue to serve as the cornerstone of palliative care education can literature heal the poetics of palliation argues that our answers to this question have origins in the romantic period in the past twenty years health humanists and scholars of literature and medicine have drawn on romantic ideas to argue that literature cures by making sufferers whole again but this model oversimplifies how romantic writers thought literature addressed suffering poetics documents how writers like william wordsworth and mary shelley explored palliative forms of literary medicine therapies that stressed literature s manifold relationship to pain and its power to sustain comfort and challenge even when cure was not possible the book charts how romantic writers developed these palliative poetics in conversation with their medical milieu british medical ethics was first codified during the romantic period its major writers john gregory and thomas percival endorsed a palliative mandate to compensate for doctors limited curative powers similarly romantic writers sought palliative approaches when their work failed to achieve starker curative goals the startling diversity of their results illustrates how palliation offers a more comprehensive metric for literary therapy than the curative traditions we have inherited from romanticism university of wisconsin milwaukee school of nursing s comprehensive charting and documentation manual for students and practitioners behavioral intervention research in hospice and palliative care building an evidence base sets forth research considerations and guidelines to build evidence based interventions to improve end of life care it is an in depth introduction to implementation research and showcases how a clinical need is identified to inform an intervention the book extensively examines the various phases of intervention research including design implementation evaluation dissemination and translation the book focuses on methodological ethical and practical issues the science behind the quality of hospice and palliative care lags behind that of traditional medical practice despite the continuous growth of palliative care interdisciplinary teams researching developing and testing strategies is essential to advancing the effectiveness and value of this care informs readers how to conduct intervention research toward identifying best care advises readers on design implementation and evaluation of research provides step by step templates to develop an intervention study includes mock protocols from successful intervention trials synthesizes lessons learned by established intervention researchers in hospice and palliative care the seven gifts of the holy spirit are complete in this novel with the addition of understanding knowledge and good counsel as they begin their mission of restoring the fortunes of families devastated by the french revolution along the way they learn self defense with cloistered nuns attend a lush masquerade and encounter their first enemy a sinister thief who will do anything to acquire the hidden war chest of napoleon himself the whys and hows of charting for home health care the textbook of the end of life that was published in behavioral sciences nursing living with grief children adolescents and loss 2000 edited by kenneth j doka features articles by leading educators and clinicians in the field of grief and bereavement the chapters entitled voices are the writings of children and adolescents the book includes a comprehensive resource list of national organizations and a useful bibliography of age appropriate literature for children and adolescents written primarily by individuals with hands on hospice experience this crucial volume identifies sources of stress among hospice workers and provides workers and managers with strategies to cope with those stressors it is an enlightening examination of diverse theoretical perspectives and a much needed investigation on stress and burnout for hospice providers and caregivers readers will find concrete suggestions for the alleviation of stress and burnout in their work with the terminally ill as well as theoretical and research discussions the authors explore a wide range of subjects and problems faced by nurses physicians social workers caregivers hospice directors and volunteers they also discuss the many factors in hospice care that may foster unfavorable stress reactions and eventual burnout among hospice professionals current literature on job stress and burnout among those who care for the terminally ill is examined and a model of stress and burnout specific to hospice caregivers is presented the authoritative chapters also identify theories of stress and burnout and the distinction between the two anyone who deals with chronic and terminal illness should read stress and burnout among providers caring for the terminally ill and their families hospice caregivers and volunteers social works clergy and health care professionals who work with cancer renal dialysis and heart and stroke patients will appreciate the attention given to a subject that has received little study
