CIFOR Strategy 2016-2025: Stepping up to the new climate and development agenda 2016-02-29 since cifor last presented a 10 year strategy in 2008 we find ourselves in a world with continually evolving development and environment challenges millions of hectares of tropical forests have been converted to agriculture degraded landscapes amount to nearly 2 billion hectares and inequality has grown in countries around the world yet there is reason to be optimistic forest expansion and restoration are gaining ground the rate of deforestation is slowing and awareness of the importance of forests is spreading among governments corporations and the global public in 2015 key developments such as the sustainable development goals sdgs and the paris climate agreement formed the basis of a new global development framework at the forefront of which is forestry and landscapes cifor s 2016 2025 strategy builds explicitly on this new framework defining the ways in which our forestry research capacity development and engagement will support and inform the emerging development agenda

Russia's Geoeconomic Strategy for a Greater Eurasia 2017-07-06 what if successful strategies are sometimes formed through an emergent process of learning and adaptation is following a coherent grand strategy the key to achieving successful outcomes in american foreign policy for many experts in academia and washington the answer is yes policymakers usually face criticism when they take incremental actions based on short term considerations but could such actions actually converge into a successful emergent strategy over time ionut popescu conclusively shows that in some cases an emergent learning model leads to better overall strategic performance than a long term strategic plan or framework popescu argues that it is time to rethink the origins of some of the most important successes and failures of america s tenure as a global superpower after world war ii presenting empirical data culled from archival research and interviews with higher ups popescu covers eight us presidential administrations ranging from truman to obama to demonstrate that senior policymakers should be skeptical of the idea that formulating and implementing a long term grand strategy is the road to a successful foreign policy legacy instead the book asserts leaders should prioritize learning from the almost unavoidable mistakes they will make early in their careers and adapting their plans to unanticipated events and changes in the international environment emergent strategy and grand strategy thus offers both scholars and practitioners of foreign policy an original theoretical framework to explain strategic success

National Five Year Development Plan, 2016/17-2020/21 2016 a clearly articulated well defined and relatively stable grand strategy is supposed to allow the ship of state to steer a steady course through the roiling seas of global politics however the obstacles to formulating and implementing grand strategy are by all accounts imposing the oxford handbook of grand strategy addresses the conceptual and historical foundations production evolution and future of grand strategy from a wide range of standpoints the seven constituent sections present and critically examine the history of grand strategy including beyond the west six distinct theoretical approaches to the subject the sources of grand strategy ranging from geography and technology to domestic politics to individual psychology and culture the instruments of grand strategy s implementation from military to economic to covert action political actors including non state actors grand strategic choices the debatable merits of grand strategy relative to alternatives and the future of grand strategy in light of challenges ranging from political polarization to technological change to aging populations the result is a field defining interdisciplinary and comparative text that will be a key resource for years to come

B2B Marketing Strategy 2017-12-03 this book develops a new approach in explaining how a nation s grand strategy is constituted how to assess its merits and how grand strategies may be comparatively evaluated within a broader framework the volume responds to three key problems common to both academia and policymaking first the literature on the concept of grand strategy generally focuses on the united states offering no framework for comparative analysis indeed many proponents of us grand strategy suggest that the concept can only be applied at most to a very few great powers such as china and russia second characteristically it remains prescriptive rather than explanatory ignoring the central conundrum of why differing countries respond in contrasting ways to similar pressures third it often understates the significance of domestic politics and policymaking in the formulation of grand strategies emphasizing mainly systemic pressures this book addresses these problems it seeks to analyze and explain grand strategies through the intersection of domestic and international politics in ten countries grouped distinctively as great powers the g5 regional powers brazil and india and pivotal powers hostile to each other who are able to destabilize the global system iran israel and saudi arabia the book thus employs a comparative framework that describes and explains why and how domestic actors and mechanisms coupled with external pressures create specific national strategies overall the book aims to fashion a valid cross contextual framework for an emerging research program on grand strategic analysis

Lesotho Economic and Development Strategy Handbook - Strategic Information, Regulations, Opportunities 2017-09-06 this book explores the images and perceptions of the eu in the eyes of their strategic partners spanning four continents these ten important global actors the brics together with the usa canada japan south korea and mexico are of profound significance to the eu in economics politics security and global governance in 2015 the volume s editors and contributors were commissioned by the european external action service to research these countries perceptions towards the eu the research highlights how in changing multilateral settings images and perceptions significantly influence the behaviour and foreign policy choices of actors the findings presented in this book helped to inform the content and focus of the 2016 eu global strategy and will be of interest to scholars students and practitioners of eu foreign policy european integration and public diplomacy

China's International Investment Strategy 2017-10-26 approximately 30 percent of the edible food produced in the united states is wasted and a significant portion of this waste occurs at the consumer level despite food's essential role as a source of nutrients and energy and its emotional and cultural importance. U.S. consumers waste an estimated average of 1 pound of food per person per day at home and in places where they buy and consume food away from home. Many factors contribute to this waste—consumers' behaviors are shaped not only by individual and interpersonal factors but also by influences within the food system such as policies, food marketing, and the media. Some food waste is unavoidable, and there is substantial variation in how food waste and its impacts are defined and measured, but there is no doubt that the consequences of food waste are severe. The wasting of food is costly to consumers, depletes natural resources, and degrades the environment. In addition, at a time when the COVID-19 pandemic has severely strained the U.S. economy and sharply increased food insecurity, it is predicted that food waste will worsen in the short term because of both supply chain disruptions and the closures of food businesses that affect the way people eat and the types of food they can afford. A national strategy to reduce food waste at the consumer level identifies strategies for changing consumer behavior, considering interactions and feedbacks within the food system, and explores the reasons food is wasted in the united states including the characteristics of the complex systems through which food is produced marketed and sold as well as the many other interconnected influences on consumers conscious and unconscious choices about purchasing preparing consuming storing and discarding food this report presents a strategy for addressing the challenge of reducing food waste at the consumer level from a holistic systems perspective
