linguistics and tefl is a refereed academic publication which aims to disseminate information knowledge and expertise in the broad area of applied linguistics strong preference is given to contributions relating to second language acquisition foreign language pedagogy teacher training and classroom innovation this issue includes ten articles presenting the latest research and scholarship from japan poland the united kingdom australia singapore malaysia spain the united states and taiwan and covers important topics in the field including critical narratives for teaching pragmatics stereotypes in foreign language learning and teaching narrative experiences of new migrants scaffolding academic language and literacy with school aged learners teacher roles in eil the opinions of english language lecturers on the use of action research the decrease in anxiety levels as a result of second language exposure explicit and implicit learning the l2 classroom enactments of a focus on language in clil classrooms teaching phonics to chinese l1 primary pupils this provides a valuable source of reference for applied linguists teacher trainers materials developers and practitioners in the field of efl esl it offers readers a deeper insight into current issues and practices thereby broadening their knowledge and promoting professional development

International Journal of Applied Industrial Engineering (IJAIE). 2014 the lnai series reports state of the art results in artificial intelligence research development education at a high level and in both printed and electronic form enjoying tight cooperation with the r d community with numerous individuals as well as with prestigious organizations and societies lnai has grown into the most comprehensive artificial intelligence research forum available the scope of lnai spans the whole range of artificial intelligence and intelligent information processing including interdisciplinary topics in a variety of application fields

International Journal of Applied Logistics, Vol 3 ISS 4 2013-01-29 abstract a college textbook discusses various theoretical concepts of consumer behavior and marketing research and their practical applications the 21 chapters of the text are organized into 5 principal sections covering basic fundamentals and models for assessing consumer behavior developing an understanding of consumer behavior relative to marketing strategies environmental influences affecting consumer behavior from the general cultural subcultural i e ethnic social class structure family level and personal influence standpoints specific determinants of consumer behavior e g motivational aspects learning and memory aspects self conceptual factors attitude characteristics and their modification and factors influencing consumer decision processes with respect to recognition of decision problems and purchasing processes and behavior photographs charts and tables are used extensively specific case studies are reviewed at the end of each of the 5 sections and each chapter includes discussion questions wz
