rodrigo díaz the legendary warrior knight of eleventh century castile known as el cid is still honored in spain as a national hero for liberating the fatherland from the occupying moors yet as this book reveals there are many contradictions between eleventh century reality and the mythology that developed later by placing el cid in a fresh historical context fletcher shows us an adventurous soldier of fortune who was of a type one of a number of cids or bosses who flourished in eleventh century spain but the el cid of legend the national hero was unique in stature even in his lifetime before his death el cid was already celebrated in a poem posthumously he was immortalized in the great epic poema de mio cid when he died in valencia in 1099 he was ruler of an independent principality he had carved for himself in eastern spain rather than the zealous christian leader many believe him to have been rodrigo emerges in fletcher s study as a mercenary equally at home in the feudal kingdoms of northern spain and the exotic moorish lands of the south selling his martial skills to christian and muslim alike indeed his very title derives from the arabic word sayyid meaning lord or master and as there was little if any sense of spanish nationhood in the eleventh century he can hardly be credited for uniting a medieval spanish nation this ground breaking inquiry into the life and times of el cid disentangles fact from myth to create a striking portrait of an extraordinary man clearly showing how and why legend transformed him into something he was not during his lifetime from publisher description

this book looks at kierkegaard with a fresh perspective shaped by the history of ideas framed by the terms romanticism and modernism modernism here refers to the kind of intellectual and literary modernism associated with georg brandes and such later nineteenth and early twentieth century figures as j p jacobsen nietzsche dostoevsky ibsen all often associated with kierkegaard in early secondary literature and the young georg lukacs this movement currently attracting increasing scholarly attention fed into such varied currents of twentieth century thought as bolshevism as in lukacs himself fascism and the early existentialism of e g shestov and the radical culture journal the brenner in which kierkegaard featured regularly and whose readers included martin heidegger each of these movements has arguably its own romantic aspect and kierkegaard thus emerges as a figure who holds together or in whom are reflected both the aspirations and contradictions of early romanticism and its later nineteenth and twentieth century inheritors kierkegaard s specific staging of his authorship in the contemporary life of copenhagen then undergoing a rapid transformation from being the backward capital of an absolutist monarchy to a modern cosmopolitan city provides a further focus for the volume in this situation the early romantic experience of nature as providing a source of healing and an experience of unambiguous life is transposed into a more complex and ultimately catastrophic register in articulating these tensions kierkegaard s authorship provided a mirror to his age but also anticipated and influenced later generations who wrestled with their own versions of this situation
