many people dream of being business owners there s an apparent allure to being your own boss changing the lives of others while making money and charting the course of your life and fortune unfortunately very few ever actualize this dream for most it remains a distant daydream that comes alive when the boss is being unbearable or when the paycheck is stretched thin by what seems like a million bills whether you are employed or in between jobs you can turn your life around with just a dream and a strategy that is how most businesses start and it is definitely how many fortunes have been made the truth is that while many people wish they could run their own businesses very few know where to begin starting a business can be exceptionally daunting especially when there are naysayers at every corner bombarding you with stories of failure it is even worse when you have a job which you are considering leaving to start your own business you ll find yourself having to deal with a lot of criticism for this less than ideal decision how dare you leave the comfort and stability of a regular paycheck to chase the pipe dream of entrepreneurship if you are doubting your ability to become and thrive as an entrepreneur it should comfort you to know that everyone has the potential to become an entrepreneur there are over seven billion people on earth and every one of them has the ability to create something and sell it for profit you might not succeed immediately as many successful entrepreneurs have learned but there is profit in commitment every good entrepreneur begins their journey with a vision merriam webster dictionary defines vision as a thought concept or object formed by the imagination as an entrepreneur your vision has everything to do with what you hope to see your business evolve into in the long term this vision will serve as the guiding light in your entrepreneurial journey always reminding you of why you got started and what waits on the other side of hard work and commitment your vision is what you will sell to potential investors and yourself on those days when you feel like quitting but not so fast if a vision is powerful a verified vision is even more so verifying your vision means checking to see whether the idea in your mind is something that can take off in the real world often times even the most brilliant ideas are not ready for launch yet a wise person once said that nothing can stop an idea whose time has come as a hopeful business owner you have to ascertain that your idea s time has come because the goal is to be unstoppable research networking and piloting are all great ways to go about verifying your vision you should never get started on a business until you are confident that you have used all sounding boards at your disposal and found it to be worth the investment
