How to Make an IMPACT 2018-11-24 eu membership provides member states with a new perception of their place in the world their foreign policies very much influenced by their involvement in the politics of brussels the candidate countries also go through the same experience the membership prospect however presented a serious challenge to turkish foreign policy and it was obvious from the moment turkey was declared as a candidate country in 1999 that its membership perspective was linked to the solution of problems in its domestic and foreign relations in this book Özlem Terzi examines the influence of the european union on the making of turkish foreign policy since it was declared a candidate country by comparing an issue specific analysis alongside an actor-based focus Terzi questions whether such a transformation in the self-perceptions of turkish policy makers is actually taking place and whether the policy-making process with respect to foreign policy issues expands to include new actors like the civil society thus democratizing the way

foreign policy is made case study rich and packed with interviews with actors involved in policy making in brussels and ankara this book enables the reader to correctly discern the factors that make the turkish case unique and to reveal whether certain aspects of turkey's pre accession process are not as unique as we think the influence of the european union on turkish foreign policy is a valuable and informative contribution for students researchers and scholars interested on the transformative power of the eu and the role of turkey's relationship with its neighbours

Leadership, Communication, and Social Influence 2012-04-07 offering a fresh approach to the issue of government and administrative corruption through everyday citizen interactions with the state this book explores changing discourses and practices of corruption in late colonial and early independent uttar pradesh india the author moves away from assumptions that the state can primarily be associated with the top levels of government and looks at citizens approaches to local level bureaucracies and police the central argument of the book is that deeply institutionalised corruption in india could only have come about through the exercise of particular long term customs of interaction between agencies of the state government servants and police and their interactions with local politicians because the social hierarchies that condition such interactions are complicated by individual and family connections to state employment periods of traumatic state transformation lead to a reconfiguration in the meaning of corruption in the local state based on principal primary sources and extensive field interviews this book will be of interest to academics working on political science and indian and south asian history
