physicians provide insurance companies that don't demand the best or even the least expensive care and pharmaceutical companies concerned with selling drugs regardless of whether they improve health or do harm. Dr. Otis Brawley is the chief medical and scientific officer of the American Cancer Society, an oncologist with a dazzling clinical research and policy career. How we do harm pulls back the curtain on how medicine is really practiced in America. Brawley tells of doctors who select treatment based on payment they will receive rather than on demonstrated scientific results. Hospitals and pharmaceutical companies that seek out patients to treat even if they are not actually ill but as long as their insurance will pay. A public primed to swallow the latest pill no matter the cost and rising healthcare costs for unnecessary and often unproven treatments that we all pay for. Brawley calls for rational healthcare drawn from results based scientifically justifiable treatments and not just the peddling of hot new drugs. Brawley's personal history from a childhood in the gang-ridden streets of Black Detroit to the green hallways of Grady Memorial Hospital, the largest public hospital in the U.S. to the boardrooms of the American Cancer Society results in a passionate view of medicine and the politics of illness in America and a deep understanding of healthcare today. How we do harm is his well-reasoned manifesto for change.
