feature will give practical examples to help you student link consumer behaviour with how it is practised in the workplace low grade metamorphism explores processes and transformations in rocks during the early stages of metamorphic recrystallization there has been little analysis and documentation of this widespread phenomenon especially of the substantial and exciting advances that have taken place in the subject over the last decade this book rectifies that shortfall building on the foundations of low temperature metamorphism by martin frey 1987 the editors have invited contributions from an internationally acknowledged team of experts who have aimed the book at advanced undergraduate and graduate students as well as researchers in the field contributions from internationally acknowledged experts documents the substantial and exciting advances that have taken place in the subject over the last decade number of exhibits 24 several jewish groups from antiquity until today have been traditionally identified as sects or as sectarian most famously the qumran community and the qaraites this volume questions the appropriateness of this interpretation of social and religious movements in jewish history the world s ageing population is increasing and food professionals will have to address the needs of older generations more closely in the future this unique volume reviews the characteristics of the ageing population as food consumers the role of nutrition in healthy ageing and the design of food products and services for the elderly chapters in part one discuss aspects of the elderly s relationship with food such as appetite and ageing ageing and sensory perception food and satisfaction with life and the social significance of meals the second part of the book reviews the role of nutrition in extending functionality into later years with chapters on topics such as undernutrition and conditions such as alzheimer s disease bone and joint health and eye related disorders concluding chapters address the issues of food safety and the elderly designing new foods and beverages for the ageing and nutrition education programmes with its distinguished editors and contributors food for the ageing population is an essential reference for those involved in the research development and provision of food products for the older generation a unique review of the characteristics of the ageing population as food consumers discusses aspects of the elderly s relationship with food including appetite ageing and sensory perception and the social significance of meals examines the role of nutrition in extending functionality in later years focusing on undernutrition alzheimers and bone and joint health reasonable estimates indicate that approximately a billion cubic meters of high water content soil like wastes are produced annually worldwide and a large portion of these are deposited hydraulically in diked impoundment areas some of which are among the largest earth structures in the world the major problems emanating from this disposal method are the difficulty in dewatering the wastes their low strength and hydraulic conductivity their high compressibility their potential to contaminate the groundwater the stability of the confining dikes and the ultimate reclamation of the disturbed land following a brief explanation of how many of these wastes are generated quantitative values for key engineering properties are summarized and compared for a wide variety of waste materials and some reference soils then many concepts that have been applied with success will be presented together with the advantages each offers the difficulties involved in using it and the limitations in our knowledge discussed briefly will be state of practice developments in mathematical modeling laboratory testing and associated interpretations and material property formulations regan and bauman s legal ethics and corporate practice is organized around the workflow of lawyers who represent corporations this innovative casebook integrates professional responsibility issues with a discussion of a particular type of task that both inside and outside counsel perform on behalf of business corporations it uses problems to illustrate how various types of work from advising a privately held company to conducting an internal investigation of a multinational corporation generate challenges that cut across ethical categories each chapter begins with a road map of the material that will follow and most end with one or two detailed problems that require students to draw on that material this book constitutes an examination of key sobriquets found among the qumran dead sea scrolls its primary focus is literary rather than historical and concentrates on the function of the sobriquets as labels utilised positively or negatively within the sectarian compositions noting the presence of standard and variant forms of these designations this study examines the differing form and function of the sobriquets across the range of texts in which they appear more specifically it attempts to demonstrate that over time they underwent a developmental process changing in form and perhaps denotation adopting a chronological schema that posits a formative early and late sectarian period and concentrating on the sobriquets the teacher of righteousness and the spouter of the lie this investigation observes a development from contextualised scriptural typologies towards titular forms constituting discrete elements of sectarian terminology a more general evolutionary trend towards a definite standard form is also highlighted with so called variants representing earlier stages in this process further demonstrated by means of a supplementary case study involving the sobriquet the seekers of smooth things comparison of these results with sociological insights drawing upon the sociology of deviance and labelling theory suggests that this phenomenon can be understood against a wider context of labelling practices thus it is demonstrated that the sobriquets function as tools for labelling deviance and affirming positive counterparts furthermore it is suggested that the move towards definite titular forms reflects a process of role engulfment increased prototypically and the ultimate acquisition of master status black and blue the redd foxx story we perceive and understand our environment using many sensory systems vision touch hearing taste smell and proprioception these multiple sensory modalities not only give us complementary sources of information about the environment but also an understanding that is richer and more complex than one modality alone could achieve as adults we integrate the multiple signals from these sense organs into unified functional representations however the ease with which we accomplish this feat belies its computational complexity not only do the senses convey information about the environment in different neural codes but the relationship between the senses frequently changes when for example the body changes posture e g when the eyes move in their sockets or indeed shape when the body grows across development these computational problems prompt an important question which represents the key focus of this book how do we develop the ability to integrate the senses while there is a considerable literature on the development of single senses such as vision or hearing few books have considered the development of all our senses and more importantly how they develop the ability to work with each other this book is unique in exploring this extraordinary feat of human nature how we develop the ability to integrate our senses it will be an important book for all those in the fields of cognitive and developmental neuroscience this book offers a novel approach for the study of law in the judean desert scrolls using the prism of legal theory following a couple of decades of scholarly consensus withdrawing from the essene hypothesis it proposes to revive the term and suggests employing it for the sectarian movement as a whole while considering the group that lived in qumran as the yahad it further proposes a new suggestion for the emergence of the yahad based on the roles of the examiner and the instructor in the two major legal codes the damascus document and the community rule the understanding of essene law is divided into concepts and practices in order to emphasize the discrepancy between creed rhetoric and practices the abstract exploration of notions such as time space obligation intention and retribution is then compared against the realities of social practices including admission initiation covenant leadership reproof and punishment the legal analysis yields several new suggestions for the study of the scrolls first amihay proposes to rename the two strands of thought of jewish law formerly referred to as nominalism and realism with the terms legal essentialism and legal formalism the two laws of admission in the community rule are distinguished as two different laws one of an association for a group as a whole the other as an admission of an individual the law of reproof is proven to be an independent legal procedure rather than a preliminary stage of prosecution the methodological division in this study of thought and practice provides a nuanced approach for the study of law in general and religious law in particular examines management responses to the major changes taking place in international tourism and considers tourism itself as an agent of change starting from the seminal work of the french scholar annie jaubert on the date of the last supper the present work revisits known and identifies new calendrical issues in the literature of second temple judaism the research supports the conclusion that all known calendrical traditions functioned on the tenet that orthopraxis in ancient judaism meant close interconnection between cultic and agricultural cycles from this perspective the book removes the calendrical objection leveled at the jaubertian theory further the research brings new light on current debates about qumran calendrical documents and proposes the identification of a previously unknown calendrical polemic in the astronomical book of enoch concerning the synchronization of the 364dy tradition with the lunar cycle life in the new world pittston pennsylvania by mary theresa policare mary theresa policare shares the story of her grandparents and their arrival in pittston pennsylvania mary provides an image of pittston from 1902 to 1918 the happiness her grandparents experienced in this new country following the birth of their children is sure to bring happiness to readers this volume highlights a broad selection of valuable research work by renowned professionals and scientists from academia and the travel industry bridging academic perspectives and research with practical applications it provides a wide ranging vision of a multitude of trends in the global travel and tourism industry today and in the future adopting an integrated and interdisciplinary approach the contributors examine a diverse selection of topics and share their research and exploratory investigations to frame their implications and outcomes the volume reflects upon the wide ranging conceptual approaches to the subject of tourism and includes varying paradigms and perspectives on the core elements of the tourism sector the overall thrust of the book is to provide a required critical depth to tourism studies and to guide the reader through the fundamental themes of tourism destination marketing branding and management great advances have been made in the area of sensory physiology during the last few decades and these developments seem to be asking for a comprehensive review that is manageable in size and cohesive in content this volume has been written with that goal in mind in the first place i would like to thank mr r van frank of appleton century crofts for asking me to do the job and my wife for persuading me to do it for writing it was an enjoyable task much of the discussion of factual data set to print here evolved in question and answer sessions in courses given to students in physiology psychology and medicine and to physicians training in neurology neurosur gery and psychiatry besides my students i had in mind while preparing this text my professional colleagues laboring on their lecture notes under circum stances perhaps not unlike my own the material is divided in two parts the first deals with the manner of representation of sensory information in peripheral nerves the so called first order code the second half of the text deals with the handling of sense data by the central nervous system one reason for dividing the material in this way is that many of the features of the first order code are common to all sensory modalities the intensity the place the rhythm the quality of stimuli are encoded by rules which are applicable albeit with appropriate modifications to all senses furthermore these rules of coding are today rather well understood this book is part of a series covering surgical specialties the volumes are multi authored containing brief chapters each of which are devoted to one or two specific questions or decisions within that specialty that are difficult or controversial the volumes are intended as a current and timely reference source for practicing surgeons surgeons in training and educators that describe the recommended ideal approach rather than customary care in selected clinical situations this thoroughly revised thirteenth edition of burket s oral medicine reflects the scope of modern oral medicine with updated content written by 80 contributing oral medicine and medical experts from across the globe the text emphasizes the diagnosis and management of diseases of the mouth and maxillofacial region as well as safe dental management for patients with complex medical disorders such as cardiovascular disease cancer infectious diseases bleeding disorders renal diseases and many more in addition to comprehensively expanded chapters on oral mucosal diseases including those on ulcers blisters red white and pigmented lesions readers will also find detailed discussions on orofacial pain temporomandibular disorders headache and salivary gland disease oral and oropharyngeal cancers including the management of oral complications of cancer therapy genetics laboratory medicine and transplantation medicine pediatric and geriatric oral medicine psychiatry and psychology clinical research and interpreting the biomedical literature the thirteenth edition of burket s oral medicine is an authoritative reference valuable to students residents oral medicine specialists teachers and researchers as well as dental and medical specialists pain management a problem based learning approach provides a comprehensive review of the dynamic and ever changing field of pain medicine its problem based format incorporates a vast pool of practical aba board exam style multiple choice questions for self assessment each its 46 case based chapters is accompanied by 20 questions and answers accessible online in a full practice exam the cases presented are also unique as each chapter starts with a case description usually a compilation of several actual cases it then branches out through case based questions to increasingly complex situations this structure is designed to create an authentic experience that mirrors that of an oral board examination the discussion sections that follow offer a comprehensive approach to the chapter s subject matter thus creating a modern complete and up to date medical review of that topic this book is equally a solid reference compendium of pain management topics and a comprehensive review to assist the general practitioner both in day to day practice and during preparation for certification exams its problem based format makes it an ideal resource for the lifelong learner and the modern realities of education
