verb inflection in normally developing children have revealed an astonishing pattern children use correctly inflected verbs in their own speech but fail to make use of verb inflections when comprehending sentences uttered by others thus a three year old might well be able to say something like the cat sleeps on the bed but fails to understand that the same sentence when uttered by another person refers to only one sleeping cat but not more than one the previous studies that have examined children s comprehension of verb inflections have employed a variant of a picture selection task in which the child was asked to explicitly indicate via pointing what semantic meaning she had inferred from the test sentence recent research on other linguistic structures such as pronouns or focus particles has indicated that earlier comprehension abilities can be found when methods are used that do not require an explicit reaction like preferential looking tasks this dissertation aimed to examine whether children are truly not able to understand the connection the the verb form and the the sentence until the age of five previous studies on the acquisition of verb inflection in normally developing children have revealed an astonishing pattern children use correctly inflected verbs in their own speech but fail to make use of verb inflections when comprehending sentences uttered by others thus a three year old might well be able to say something like the cat sleeps on the bed but fails to understand that the same sentence when uttered by another person refers to only one sleeping cat but not more than one the previous studies that have examined children s comprehension of verb inflections have employed a variant of a picture selection task in which the child was asked to explicitly indicate via pointing what semantic meaning she had inferred from the test sentence recent research on other linguistic structures such as pronouns or focus particles has indicated that earlier comprehension abilities can be found when methods are used that do not require an explicit reaction like preferential looking tasks this dissertation aimed to examine whether children are truly not able to understand the connection the the verb form and the meaning of the sentence subject until the age of five years or whether earlier comprehension can be found when a different measure preferential looking is used additionally children s processing of subject verb agreement violations was examined the three experiments of this thesis that examined children s comprehension of verb inflections revealed the following german speaking three to four year old when hearing a sentence with a singular inflected verb but only when their eye gaze was tracked and they did not have to perform a picture selection task when they were asked to point to the matching picture they performed at chance level this pattern indicates asymmetries in children s language performance even within the receptive modality the fourth experiment examined sensitivity to subject verb agreement violations and did not reveal evidence for sensitivity toward agreement violations in three and four year old children but only found that children s looking patterns were influenced by the grammatical violations at the age of five the results from these experiments are discussed in relation to the existence of a production comprehension asymmetry in the use of verb inflections and children s underlying grammatical knowledge
