Brewer's Concise Dictionary of Phrase and Fable 1995 a lot of digital ink has been spilled on big data over the past few years most of this surge owes its origin to the various types of unstructured data in the wild among which the proliferation of text heavy data is particularly overwhelming attributed to the daily use of web documents business reviews news social posts etc by so many people worldwide a core challenge presents itself how can one efficiently and effectively turn massive unstructured text into structured representation so as to further lay the foundation for many other downstream text mining applications in this book we investigated one promising paradigm for representing unstructured text that is through automatically identifying high quality phrases from innumerable documents in contrast to a list of frequent n grams without proper filtering users are often more interested in results based on variable length phrases with certain semantics such as scientific concepts organizations slogans and so on we propose new principles and powerful methodologies to achieve this goal from the scenario where a user can provide meaningful guidance to a fully automated setting through distant learning this book also introduces applications enabled by the mined phrases and points out some promising research directions

Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable 1986 the main topic of this volume is the phrase structural analysis of noun phrases and sentences this analysis is based on recent ideas within the government and binding framework and makes crucial use of such modules as theta assignment binding theory case assignment as well as different definitions of the notion barrier the ten papers deal with certain aspects of english and german noun phrases

Oxford Dictionary of Phrase and Fable 2006 this book looks at the relationship between syntax and semantics bringing together two seemingly unrelated hypotheses that verbs do not require arguments and that specifiers are not required by the grammar the analysis has consequences for the theory of locality agreement serial verbs and multidominance structures

The Science and Art of Phrase-making 1902 one of the recurrent questions in historical linguistics is to what extent languages can borrow grammar from other languages it seems for instance hardly likely that each average european language developed a definite article all by itself without any influence from neighbouring languages it is on the other hand by no means clear what exactly was borrowed since the way in which definiteness is expressed differs greatly among the various germanic and romance languages and dialects one of the main aims of this volume is to shed some light on the question of what is similar and what is different in the structure of the noun phrase of the various romance and germanic languages and dialects and what causes this similarity or difference
