this sweeping history of the ancient near east mesopotamia syria anatolia iran takes readers on a journey from the creation of the world s first cities to the conquest of alexander the great the book is built around the life stories of many ancient men and women from kings priestesses and merchants to bricklayers musicians and weavers their habits of daily life beliefs triumphs and crises and the changes that they faced over time are explored through their written words and the archaeological remains of the buildings cities and empires in which they lived rather than chronicling three thousand years of kingdoms the book instead creates a tapestry of life stories through which readers come to know specific individuals from many walks of life and to understand their places within the broad history of events and institutions in the ancient near east these life stories are preserved on ancient cuneiform tablets which allow us to trace for example the career of a weaver as she advanced to become a supervisor of a workshop listen to a king trying to persuade his generals to prepare for a siege and feel the pain of a starving young couple who were driven to sell all four of their young children into slavery during a famine what might seem at first glance to be a remote and inaccessible ancient culture proves to be a comprehensible world one that bequeathed to us many of our institutions and beliefs a truly fascinating place to visit
