when pakistan was carved out of india in 1947 as a homeland for the muslims of the subcontinent it was envisioned as a secular state where non muslims would be granted freedom of religion and equal citizenship however the subsequent historical events led to a fast islamization of nearly every part of public life and discrimination against the country s religious minorities who today make up less than 4 per cent of the overall population based on extensive field work involving more than 100 non structured qualitative interviews this study explores the situation of the religious minorities and the dynamics of interfaith peacebuilding in the islamic republic of pakistan primary focus was laid on the practice of interfaith dialogue which given the draconic blasphemy laws differs from interfaith dialogue as conceived of in the west additionally other peacebuilding measures as offered by various non governmental organizations were taken into account be they advocacy promotion of human rights and unbiased education or policy negotiation with the government heike ruhland holds two master s degrees one in islamic studies university of zurich and one in international information management university of hildesheim she attained

this book moves away from originary myths of region and identity that have dominated academic and mediatized representations of punjab a land locked region divided between india and pakistan after the partition of 1947 and instead focuses on the role of the imagination in producing punjab it deconstructs punjab as an ethno spatial ethno linguistic and ethno cultural construct produced by the communities who dwell there those who have left it and those formed by new narratives of the region by isolating imaginings of punjab that are not centred on exclusivist regional linguistic sectarian or caste perspectives contributions to this book propose the concept of free flowing cartographies in relation to punjab which facilitate its imaginings as a geographical region a social construct and a state of consciousness the region is simultaneously imagined as a small place a neighbourhood a city and a village but also as a performative practice and a certain ways of doing things through focusing on a number of punjabi spaces and communities and engaging with punjab as a geographical region social construct and state of consciousness the papers in the book hope to contribute to broader debates on transnationalism postnationalism micronationalism and new identity narratives emerging in the twenty first century this book was originally published as a special issue of south asian diaspora
