my purpose mahatma gandhi writes of this book is to describe experiments in the science of satyagraha not to say how good i am satyagraha gandhi s nonviolent protest movement satya true agraha firmness came to stand like its creator as a moral principle and a rallying cry the principle was truth and the cry freedom the life of gandhi has given fire and fiber to freedom fighters and to the untouchables of the world hagiographers and patriots have capitalized on mahatma myths yet gandhi writes often the title mahatma great soul has deeply pained me but i should certainly like to narrate my experiments in the spiritual field which are known only to myself and from which i have derived such power as i possess for working in the political field clearly gandhi never renounced the world he was neither pacifist nor cult guru who was gandhi in the midst of resurging interest in the man who freed india inspired the american civil rights movement and is revered respected and misunderstood all over the world the time is proper to listen to gandhi himself in his own words his own confessions his autobiography gandhi made scrupulous truth telling a religion and his autobiography inevitably reminds one of other saints who have suffered and burned for their lapses his simply narrated account of boyhood in gujarat marriage at age 13 legal studies in england and growing desire for purity and reform has the force of a man extreme in all things he details his gradual conversion to vegetarianism and ahimsa non violence and the state of celibacy brahmacharya self restraint that became one of his more arduous spiritual trials in the political realm he outlines the beginning of satyagraha in south africa and india with accounts of the first indian fasts and protests his initial errors and misgivings his jailings and continued cordial dealings with the british overlords gandhi was a fascinating complex man a brilliant leader and guide a seeker of truth who died for his beliefs but had no use for martyrdom or sainthood his story the path to his vision of satyagraha and human dignity is a critical work of the twentieth century and timeless in its courage and inspiration

The Bhagavad Gita According to Gandhi 2010-06-15

m k gandhi the mahatma there is a famous saying some people are born great some achieve greatness and some people are thrust upon greatness the first category of people are those born as the children of kings and monarchs i believe that the second category constitute people like gandhiji who achieve greatness through their precious life by upholding their precious principles in life without jettisoning them while sailing through the rough sea of life certainly there were his fore runners to him in the annals of the history like abraham lincoln martin luther king jr etc but gandhiji became a mahatma not only by his martyrdom but by establishing himself as a living legend as an apostle of peace and nonviolence before starting his experiments with truth he was an ordinary young man with strong sexual appetite and violent temper and in his boyhood he was just an ordinary boy fragile timid and even a coward who was afraid even to enter into another room of his own house without the company of others but at the same time he had enough mischief like eating meat flouting the custom of his caste smoking and stealing money from his house to indulge in such hateful and forbidden activities he did not like any sports activities and did not mingle with his colleagues whom he was afraid to face for fear of taunting remarks from them but the great transformation of his personality from trembling timidity to a most courageous man occurred in a single incident when he was pushed out of the first class compartment at maritzburg railway station for being a colored coolie barrister this humiliation hurt his self respect and made him a great crusader of civil rights he later told i cannot conceive of a greater loss than the loss of one s self respect this fiery awareness of self respect was the only capital he possessed in his life it urged him to fight relentlessly against injustice and inhuman discrimination even after becoming a famous and respectable civil rights activist no body attributed any greatness to him until 1930 the world came to know him when he successfully launched the salt satyagraha it catapulted him to the status of a unique world leader who could shake the great british empire by a pinch of salt and proved to the world that nonviolent satyagraha can conquer the mightiest force he became the time magazine s man of the year he was nominated five times for nobel prize gandhi s life and teachings have inspired many great leaders like dr martin luther king nelson mandela aung san suu kyi etc it is said that it was rabindranath tagore called him mahatma for the first time in the eyes of millions across the world gandhiji is now a mahatma he is also recognized as india s father of nation thousands of books have been written about him by great writers he is now one of the most universally recognized person on earth but he was a man of flush and blood and that is the main reason why millions liked him and even loved him his ordinary life turned extraordinary through self purification by his persistent pursuit for truth his life was an inspiration for innumerable works of art and literature there is even a cult movement known as gandhism to venerate gandhiji and make him a religious icon but he had never projected himself as a godly incarnation like many do in india rather he said there is no such thing as gandhism and i do not want to leave any sect after me i do not claim to have originated any new principle or doctrine i have simply tried in my own way to apply the eternal truths to our daily life and problems the options i have formed and the conclusions i have arrived at are not final i may change them tomorrow i have nothing new to teach the world truth and nonviolence are as old as the hills this kind of humility is another mark of a great soul
