representational distortion of a descriptive motif reprint of the original first published in 1857 we usually see the renaissance as a marked departure from older traditions but renaissance scholars often continued to cling to the teachings of the past for instance despite the evidence of their own dissections which contradicted ancient and medieval texts renaissance anatomists continued to teach those outdated views for nearly two centuries in books of the body andrea carlino explores the nature and causes of this intellectual inertia on the one hand anatomical practice was constrained by a reverence for classical texts and the belief that the study of anatomy was more properly part of natural philosophy than of medicine on the other hand cultural resistance to dissection and dismemberment of the human body as well as moral and social norms that governed access to cadavers and the ritual of their public display in the anatomy theater also delayed anatomy s development a fascinating history of both renaissance anatomists and the bodies they dissected this book will interest anyone studying renaissance science medicine art religion and society nessun intellettuale the operatic stage the covid pandemic has led us into an upheaval that has made us question the certainties underlying what it means to be a human being in our age the ability to control medical and social facts through evidence for the first time western and developed countries have had to confront what many populations from the developing world africa latin america etc face on a daily basis with hiv and ebola etc the interconnectedness of globalization has been the real disseminating catalyst of covid 19 and many scientists wonder if this virus is the result of the anthropocene age with its indisputable lack of respect for the natural ecosystems the virus has demonstrated that our frailty is only skin deep and it has not only brought death despair but it has broken our interdependency as human beings by imposing self isolation as well as creating new ways of connections so that safety cannot imply loneliness in this book the coping strategies that originate from the multiple languages of care such as narrative literature science philosophy art digital science are shown not only as reflective tools to promote health but also wellbeing amongst carers patients students and citizens of our planet earth these strategies should be supported by the decision makers since they are low cost investments necessary to make the health care system work they however require a change of cultural paradigm this book is a useful toolkit for patients citizens and care services physicians who want to learn more on how to live better with this new world giuseppe tartini attempt to write the archaeology of the nature and history of description in the digital age salvatore bernocco was born in ruvo di puglia a town in apulia situated in southern italy in 1961 he works in the town hall utilizing his degree in economics and commerce from the university of bari nearby a journalist writer and poet he also is managing editor of fermento a monthly publication by the catholic church ss redentore in ruvo di puglia as well as the vice editor of the local magazine il rubastino many of his articles have been published in the osservatore romano the newspaper of the catholic church as well as having published articles in many other regional and national newspapers and magazines within italy he also has written many books and poems in italian he s the president of sehaliah a cultural and yoga association of ruvo di puglia founded in 2005 and the co founder of the apo association the goal of which is the prevention of cancer this is his second experience in english and italian languages with the publisher xlibris his first book insights on life and love was released in 2010 his attempt is to bridge two different cultures unified in poetic thoughts thanks to the experiences and knowledge he gained studying english from the age of 14 aracoeli 1982 was the last novel written by elsa morante 1912 85 one of the most significant italian writers of the twentieth century the journey both geographical and memorial of a homosexual son in search of his dead mother is a first person narrative that has puzzled many critics for its darkness and despair by combining scholars from different disciplines and cultural traditions this volume re evaluates the esthetical and theoretical complexity of morante s novel and argues that it engages with crucial philosophical and epistemological questions in an original and profound way contributors explore the manifold tensions staged by the novel in connection with contemporary philosophical discourse from feminist queer to political theory to psycho analysis and authors such as emilio gadda pier paolo pasolini and pedro almodovar the power of disturbance shows that by creating a hallucinatory representation of the relationship between mother and child aracoeli questions the classical distinction between subject and object and proposes an altogether new and subversive kind of writing manuele gragnolati teaches italian literature at oxford university where he is a fellow of somerville college sara fortuna teaches philosophy of language at the universita guglielmo marconi in rome venetian music print culture of the mid sixteenth century is presented here through a study of the scotto press one of the foremost dynastic music publishers of the renaissance for over a century the house of scotto played a pivotal role in the international book trade publishing in a variety of fields including philosophy medicine religion and music this book examines the mercantile activities of the firm through both a historical study which illuminates the wide world of the venetian music printing industry and a catalog which details the music editions brought out by the firm during its most productive period a valuable reference work this book not only enhances our understanding of the socioeconomic and cultural history of renaissance venice it also helps to preserve our knowledge of a vast musical repertory long obfuscated by modern definitions of historical evidence and art patronage lucrezia tornabuoni de medici s impact on the visual world of her time comes to light in this book the first full length scholarly argument for a lay woman s contributions to the visual arts of fifteenth century florence this focused investigation of the medici family s domestic altarpiece filippo lippi s adoration of the christ child is broad in its ramifications mapping out the cultural network of gender piety and power in which lippi s painting was originally embedded author stefanie solum challenges the received wisdom that women played little part in actively shaping visual culture during the florentine quattrocento she uses visual evidence never before brought to bear on the topic to reveal that lucrezia tornabuoni shrewd power broker pious poetess and mother of the magnificent lorenzo de medici also had a profound impact on the visual arts lucrezia emerges as a fascinating key to understanding the ways in which female lay religiosity created the visual world of renaissance florence the medici case study establishes at long last a robust historical basis for the assertion of women s agency and patronage in the deeply patriarchal and artistically dynamic society of quattrocento florence as such it offers a new paradigm for the understanding and future study of female patronage during this period
