Difficult Empathy and Rhetorical Encounters 2023-08-04 difficult empathy takes up the question of empathy as fundamentally a rhetorical concern focusing on the ways we encounter and understand one another in what we read and write hear and say the book centres around the argument that empathy as a rhetorical event occurs not simply in the minds of individuals but as a product of the rhetorical situations practices cultures and values in which we engage rather than identifying empathy as a cure all or jettisoning the concept altogether the author acknowledges empathy s potential as well as its limitations by focusing on what makes empathy a hard and ultimately worthwhile practice this nuanced and original study will interest scholars working at the intersection of rhetoric and composition with empathy as well as those studying empathy in fields such as critical and cultural theory politics media analysis social psychology and the cognitive humanities

Why Ethics? 2000-09-17 robert gibbs presents here an ambitious new theory of ethics drawing on a striking combination of intellectual traditions including jewish thought continental philosophy and american pragmatism gibbs argues that ethics is primarily concerned with responsibility and is not as philosophers have often assumed principally a matter of thinking about the right thing to do and acting in accordance with the abstract dictates of reason or will more specifically ethics is concerned with attending to others questions and bearing responsibility for what they do gibbs builds this innovative case by exploring the implicit responsibilities in a broad range of human interactions paying especially close attention to the signs that people give and receive as they relate to each other why ethics starts by examining the simple actions of listening and speaking reading and writing and by focusing on the different responsibilities that each action entails the author discusses what he describes as the mutual responsibilities implicit in the actions of reasoning mediating and judging he assesses the relationships among ethics pragmatics and jewish philosophy the book concludes by looking at the relation of memory and the immemorial emphasizing the need to respond for past actions by confessing seeking forgiveness and making reconciliations in format gibbs adopts a talmudic approach interweaving brief citations from primary texts with his commentary he draws these texts from diverse thinkers and sources including levinas derrida habermas rosenzweig luhmann peirce james royce benjamin maimonides the bible and the talmud ranging over philosophy literary theory social theory and historiography this is an ambitious and provocative work that holds profound lessons for how we think about ethics and how we seek to live responsibly
