provides a new perspective on events in the middle east during world war i and its aftermath he shows that british officials in cairo mistakenly assumed that the arabs would rebel against turkey and welcome the british as deliverers sharif later king hussein did rebel but not for nationalistic motives as is generally presented in historiography early in the war he simultaneously negotiated with the british and the turks but after discovering that the turks intended to assassinate him finally sided with the british there was no arab revolt in the fertile crescent it was mainly the soldiers of united syria scheme it was supported by the british military administration who wished thereby to eliminate the french from syria british officers were antagonistic to zionism as well and were responsible for the anti jewish riots in jerusalem in april 1920 during the twenties unlike the hussein family and their allies the peasants fellaheen who constituted the majority of the arab population in palestine were not inimical towards the zionists they maintained that progress and prosperity lie in the path of brotherhood between arabs and jews and regarded jewish immigration and
