seminar paper from the year 2003 in the subject english language and literature studies literature grade 1 7 johannes gutenberg university mainz course english romantic art and literature 5 entries in the bibliography language english abstract the fear of innovation in this country extends to every thing mourns mary wollstonecraft in her vindication of the rights of woman in 1792 254 at this time women were thought to be inferior to men and did not have any legal rights as a well educated and very intelligent woman wollstonecraft could hardly bare to see her fellow women trudge through life not even noticing that they were suppressed by an unjust system of slave like subjugation a vindication of the rights of woman therefore aimed at changing public perception of women and showing ways to improve women s rights in society in this paper i will try to point out the main arguments of a vindication of the rights of woman and the way they are built upon one another in wollstonecraft s work there is no real distinction between the different points as they are interwoven in cultural and social life as well for the reader nowadays however i thought it to be more convenient to first understand what the situation for women in wollstonecraft s time was like and how always according to wollstonecraft s own description they were perceived in society her own perception of woman will round up the first chapter of this paper the next point will deal with the relation between the sexes mainly with the way women are suppressed by men and how this subjugation could be rendered more just this leads to the main point of the argument which is the emancipation of women in this chapter i will concentrate on the reasons for female emancipation the means of its achievement and the effects it would have on society in the last chapter i will draw a conclusion which will bring the main arguments together briefly deal with some of the consequences and compare mary wollstonecraft with other female writers of her time mary wollstonecraft s 1792 vindication of the rights of women is an incendiary attack on the place of women in 18th century society often considered to be the earliest widely circulated work of feminism the book is a powerful example of what can be achieved by creative thinkers people who refuse to be bound by the standard ways of thinking or to see things through the same lenses that everyone else uses in the case of the vindication wollstonecraft s independent thinking went directly against the standard assumptions of the age regarding women during the seventeenth century and earlier it was an entirely standard point of view to consider women as largely speaking uneducable they were widely considered to be men s inferiors incapable of rational thought they not only did not need a rational education it was assumed that they could not benefit from one wollstonecraft in contrast argued that women s apparent triviality was a direct consequence of society failing to educate them if they were not men s equals it was the fault of a society that refused to treat them as such so radical was her message that it would take until the 20th century for her views to become truly accepted mary woolstonecroft is now regarded as one of the founding feminist philosophers and her writings are a key voice in a feminist conversation that still continues today writing in a time when men were asserting their rights in revolutions in america and france wollstonecraft produced her own declaration of female independence in 1792 passionate eloquent and forthright a vindication of the rights of woman launched a scathing attack on the understanding of women as docile domestic figures and instead laid out the tenets for a new vision an equal education for girls and boys an end to prejudice and a chance for women to become defined by their profession not their partner were all some of wollstonecraft s ideas whereas mary wollstonecraft s work was received at the time with a mixture of admiration and outrage she is now rightly viewed as a powerful matriarch of modern feminism this book is part of a range of highly designed fiction and non fiction classics with bold eye catching graphic covers by evi o studio this collection aims to introduce a selection of the most celebrated works of the last thousand years to a new audience featuring tales of adventure fiction from the 19th and 20th centuries feminist writings and reflections on art politics philosophy and the origins of man this is a small wide reaching and essential collection evi o studio is led by evi a designer with over 10 years industry experience she has worked as a designer at penguin books and her work has won a number of publishing and design awards including young designer of the year and book of the year evi is also a well known artist exhibiting her abstract paintings regularly in sydney and melbourne

A Vindication of the Rights of Men, in a Letter to the Right Honourable Edmund Burke 2022-10-13

mary wollstonecraft s a vindication of the rights of woman is a treatise on overcoming the ways in which women in her time are oppressed and denied their potential in society with concomitant problems for their households and society as a whole the dedication is to charles m talleyrand périgord the late bishop of autun whose views on female education were distasteful to wollstonecraft the introduction sets out her view that neglect of girls education is largely to blame for the condition of adult women they are treated as subordinate beings who care only about being attractive elegant and meek they buy into this oppression and they do not have the tools to vindicate their fundamental rights or the awareness that they are in such a condition in the first chapter wollstonecraft promotes reason and rationality and discusses the deleterious effects of absolute arbitrary political power and the vices associated with riches and hereditary honors chapters two and three detail the various ways in which women are rendered subordinate they are taught that their looks are of paramount concern and they tend to cultivate weakness and artificiality to appear pleasing to others they are seldom independent and tend not to exercise reason writers like rousseau and dr gregory desire that women remain virtual slaves enshrined in the home and concerned only with their natural proclivities of being modest chaste and beautiful women are taught to indulge their emotions and thus have unhappy marriages because passion cannot be sustained virtue should not be relative to gender as both men and women were created by god and have souls they have the same kind of propensity to exercise reason and develop virtue female dependence as seen in her day is not natural women s confinement in the home and inability to participate in the public sphere results in their insipidness and pettiness wollstonecraft wants to inspire a revolution in female manners
