The Jesus Factor is a 1970 conspiracy theory thriller novel by Edwin Corley based on the Manhattan Project of World War II and the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. It concerns issues relating to the arms race and the collective guilt of those involved with the bombings. The Jesus Factor moves from Washington to Hiroshima from Moscow to a tiny island named Tinian in the South Pacific where the young Hugh McGavin flew the first atomic bombing mission in 1945. The Jesus Factor recounts how George Bush, struggling with business failures and a drinking problem, made a life-altering decision in the 1980s after spending a weekend with the Jesus Factor. The Jesus Factor by Edwin Corley is a work of Cold War fiction. The author freely acknowledges as much in the one-page afterword. The premise behind the book is: imagine a world where the atomic bomb exists but doesn't work. The Jesus Factor moves from Washington to Hiroshima from Moscow to a tiny island named Tinian in the South Pacific where young Hugh McGavin flew the first atomic bombing mission in 1945.
