The Holocaust

2017-04-18

In June 1944 Freda Wineman and her family arrived at Auschwitz Birkenau, the infamous Nazi concentration and death camp. After a cursory look from an SS doctor, Freda's life was spared and her mother was sent to the gas chambers. Freda only survived because the Allies won the war. The Nazis ultimately wanted every Jew to die. Her mother was one of millions who lost their lives because of a racist regime that believed that some human beings simply did not deserve to live, not because of what they had done but because of who they were.

Laurence Rees has spent twenty-five years meeting the survivors and perpetrators of the Third Reich and the Holocaust. In this sweeping history, he combines this testimony with the latest academic research to investigate how history's greatest crime was possible. Rees argues that while hatred of the Jews was at the epicenter of Nazi thinking, we cannot fully understand the Holocaust without considering Nazi plans to kill millions of non-Jews as well. He also reveals that there was no single overarching blueprint for the Holocaust; instead, a series of escalations compounded into the horror. Though Hitler was most responsible for what happened, the blame is widespread. Rees reminds us that the effects are enduring.

The Holocaust: A New History is an accessible yet authoritative account of this terrible crime. A chronological, intensely readable narrative, this is a compelling exposition of humanity's darkest moment.

Auschwitz

auschwitz birkenau is the site of the largest mass murder in human history yet its story is not fully known in auschwitz laurence rees reveals new insights from more than 100 original interviews with auschwitz survivors and nazi perpetrators who speak on the record for the first time their testimonies provide a portrait of the inner workings of the camp in unrivalled detail from the techniques of mass murder to the politics and gossip mill that turned between guards and prisoners to the on camp brothel in which the lines between those guards and prisoners became surprisingly blurred rees examines the strategic decisions that led the nazi leadership to prescribe auschwitz as its primary site for the extinction of europe s jews their final solution he concludes that many of the horrors that were perpetrated in auschwitz were driven not just by ideological inevitability but as a practical response to a war in the east that had begun to go wrong for germany a terrible immoral pragmatism characterizes many of the decisions that determined what happened at auschwitz thus the story of the camp becomes a morality tale too in which evil is shown to proceed in a series of deft almost noiseless incremental steps until it produces the overwhelming horror of the industrial scale slaughter that was inflicted in the gas chambers of auschwitz insights gleaned from more than one hundred original interviews shed new light on history's most famous death camp with the testimonies of survivors providing a detailed and chilling portrait of the camp's inner workings in a companion volume to the pbs documentary despite the immense popularity of laurence Sterne's work during his lifetime his contribution to the novel form and experimentalism has only been acknowledged since his death his contemporaries richardson and goldsmith denounced his archaic methods and took offence at his playful irreverence but his oddity is never accidental nor perverse it is the strategy of an inventive thoughtful comic talent tristram shandy perhaps his best loved work defies convention at every turn distributing narrative content across a bafflingly idiosyncratic time scheme interrupted by digressions authorial comments and interferences with the printed fabric of the book this comically fragmented storyline is a reaction against the linear narratives of fielding and richardson aiming instead at a realistic impressionism a shape determined by the association of ideas this study reads Sterne's work in the light of modern literary theory as befits an artist before his time so far histories of historiography have concentrated almost exclusively on the west this is the first book to offer a history of modern historiography from a global perspective tracing the transformation of historical writings over the past two and half centuries the book portrays the transformation of historical writings under the effect of professionalization which served as a model not only for western but also for much of non western historical studies at the same time it critically examines the reactions in post modern and post colonial thought to established conceptions of scientific historiography a main theme of the book is how historians in the non western world not only adopted or adapted western ideas but also explored different approaches rooted in their own cultures although at times painfully insecure about her creative ability and achievement Margaret Laurence nevertheless remained fiercely loyal to her artistic vision an archetypal vision of loss exile and redemption that sought comprehensive expression in the epic mode that shapes the Bible Dante's Divine Comedy Milton's Paradise Lost and ultimately the Manawaka world of Hagar Shipley Rachel Cameron Stacey MacAindra and Morag Gunn Paul Comeau traces the development of Margaret Laurence's epic voice from its tentative beginnings in her African fiction to its culmination in the epic Manawaka cycle a Dantesque journey through an infernal state of self destructive pride out of a purgatorial paralysis of self doubt and on to a kind of paradisaical fulfillment in self knowledge laurence discovered in epic a fitting mode at once to requite her debt to the ancestors and to break free of their influence to portray the world through the sight of her own eyes in so doing she became the enduring epic voice of a country and a generation global warming has a silver lining for one part of the world the countries around the arctic rim professor laurence c smith spent 15 months travelling through canada scandinavia russia and the northern united states and in the new north professor laurence smith he shows how by 2050 they may be flourishing in the face of four key mega trends global warming pressure on natural resources especially oil and water globalization and an exploding but aging population some countries will benefit while countries closer to the equator will suffer canada scandinavia russia and the northern united states will become formidable economic powers and migration magnets their cities will flourish unlikely places such as nuuk greenland hammerfest norway archangelsk russia but there s a catch while wreaking havoc on the environment global warming will liberate a treasure trove of oil gas water and other natural resources previously locked in the frozen north enriching residents and attracting newcomers according to smith and these resources will pour from northern rim countries or norcs as smith calls them precisely at a time when natural resources elsewhere are becoming critically depleted making them all the more valuable laurence smith spent 15 months travelling the northern rim of the world originally simply to study the effects of climate change especially among such indigenous peoples as canada s inuit and scandinavia s sami he interviewed seal hunters reindeer herders fishermen miners farmers oil company executives biologists climatologists oceanographers indigenous elders restaurant operators small town mayors and big time federal officials but he uncovered a much bigger story i kept badgering people for stories about climate change smith says they d sigh and oblige me but then say there s also this oil plant going up behind me or all these filipino immigrants are pouring in within about two months i realized there is a lot more going on up there besides climate change climate change is a critical threat to many people but it isn't the sole development in their lives he predicts how for instance new shipping lanes will open during the summer in the arctic allowing europe to realize its 500 year old dream of direct trade between the atlantic and the far east and resulting in new access to and economic development in the north oil resources in canada will be second only to those in saudi arabia and the country's population will swell by more than 30 percent a growth rate rivaling india's and six times faster than china's norcs will be among the few place on earth where crop production will likely increase due to climate change norcs collectively will constitute the fourth largest economy in the world behind the bric countries brazil russia india and china the european union and the united states norcs will become the envy of the world for their reserves of fresh water which may be sold and transported to other regions in a brilliant synthesis of hard data and human stories the new north turns the world literally upside down
