administration and law was published in 1983 it has retained its unique status of being the only book in the field of public administration that analyzes how constitutional law regulates and informs the way administrators interact with each other and the public examining first fourth fifth eighth and fourteenth amendment rights as they pertain to these encounters it explains how public administrators must do their jobs and how administrative systems must operate in order to comply with constitutional law explores the conflicts between laws the book begins by presenting a historical account of the way constitutional and administrative law have incrementally retrofitted public agencies into the nation s constitutional design it examines the federal judiciary s impact on federal administration and the effect of the nation s myriad environmental laws on public administration next it focuses on the role of the individual as a client and customer of public agencies in a discussion of the fourth amendment it examines street level encounters between citizens and law enforcement agents responding to the rise of the new public management npm it also adds for the first time in this edition a chapter that analyzes the rights of the individual not only as a government employee but also as a government contractor enhanced with numerous references the final chapters of the book address issues concerning the rights of inmates in administrative institutions and balancing the need to protect individual rights with the ability of agencies to function effectively supplemented with case citations and lists of articles books and documents this text is designed to facilitate further study in a constantly evolving area about the authors david h rosenbloom ph d is distinguished professor of public administration in the school of public affairs at american university in washington d c and chair professor of public management at city university of hong kong rosemary o leary ph d j d is distinguished professor of public administration and the howard g and s louise phanstiel chair in strategic management and leadership at syracuse university joshua m chanin m p a j d is a ph d candidate in public administration and justice law and society in the school of public affairs at american university in washington d c this monograph is the ninth offering in the combat studies institute s csi global war on terrorism gwot occasional papers series the author a retired army lieutenant colonel and csi historian has produced a study that examines the evolution and continued applicability of the corpus that constitutes the law of war as background he provides a theoretical framework and the development of the law within western and specifically u s army doctrine and regulation he then presents a case study of the british suppression of the mau mau insurgency between 1952 and 1960 in kenya a conflict with particular resonance today some of the more relevant characteristics of the conflict include the clash between western and non western cultures and an initially asymmetric fight between conventional security forces and loosely organized poorly equipped insurgents it makes no claim that every lesson learned by the british during that counterinsurgency operation can be directly applied by the united states to the challenges of the gwot but this analysis does offer some insight about applying the law of war to an unfamiliar non western environment the genesis of this study is the public discourse asserting the possibility that the gwot may require new rules and new law of war prescripts this important discussion is fraught with complexities and long term implications the moral force in warfare is incredibly significant and any changes to the legal framework in place must be very carefully considered do we follow the law of war to the letter do we remain consistent with the principles of geneva or do we approach the conflict as a new challenge requiring fundamental revisions to the law according to the author law of war violations are neither necessary nor excusable for successful prosecution of military operations in any environment and because the law of war in its current form is more than adequate to face the new gwot challenges it does not warrant revision with the encroachment of the internet into nearly all aspects of work and life it seems as though information is everywhere however there is information and then there is correct appropriate and timely information while we might love being able to turn
