Black Interdictions 2022-02-21 in black interdictions philip kretsedemas exposes the antiblack racism latent in the u s government s haitian refugee policies of the 1980s and 1990s which set the tone for the criminalization of migrants and refugees in the new millennium and lead to the migration and refugee policies of the trump era and beyond this type of radical exclusion is singular to the black experience and the black nonblack binary must be factored into an analysis of the us migration regime it is not possible to work together for equity and justice if we are not prepared to grapple with this divisive history and the instinct to avoid dealing with the singularity of the black experience this book will be of interest to scholars of migration and refugee studies black studies legal studies public policy and international relations and many others

Masculinities in the Criminological Field 2016-05-06 over recent decades criminological research has changed from a gender blind discipline which equated crime with men and thus ignored questions about gender to an approach that studied gender by showing statistical differences between men and women and then finally to a more inclusive and elaborate gender theoretical approach to crime and crime control however despite this development research on gender and in particular research on gendered norms and the construction and enactment of masculinities within the criminological field has been unable to keep up with developments in gender research since 1990 only a few anthologies with a gender theoretical orientation focusing on masculinities within the criminological research field have been published many of the theoretical developments in gender research still have difficulties in reaching into mainstream criminology partly because such developments are often published in feminist and or gender theoretical journals this volume both problematizes and renders visible conceptions and norms regarding male behaviour and masculinities and shows how these affect the criminological field through providing a theoretically sound and clear gender perspective to this field of research with sections based around the following three themes negotiations of masculinity in institutional settings vulnerable masculinities and risk taking and masculinities this volume will be of interest to scholars of criminology sociology social work and gender studies as well as policy makers and law enforcement professionals
