Why Political Liberalism? 2011-02-01 in why political liberalism paul weithman offers a fresh rigorous and compelling interpretation of john rawls s reasons for taking his so called political turn weithman takes rawls at his word that justice as fairness was recast as a form of political liberalism because of an inconsistency rawls found in his early treatment of social stability he argues that the inconsistency is best seen by identifying the threats to stability with which the early rawls was concerned one of those threats often overlooked by rawls s readers is the threat that the justice of a well ordered society would be undermined by a generalized prisoner s dilemma showing how the rawls of a theory of justice tried to avert that threat shows that the much neglected third part of that book is of considerably greater philosophical interest and has considerably more unity of focus than is generally appreciated weithman painstakingly reconstructs rawls s attempts to show that a just society would be stable and just as carefully shows why rawls came to think those arguments were inconsistent with other parts of his theory weithman then shows that the changes rawls introduced into his view between theory of justice and political liberalism result from his attempt to remove the inconsistency and show that the hazard of the generalized prisoner s dilemma can be averted after all recovering rawls s two treatments of stability helps to answer contested questions about the role of the original position and the foundations of justice as fairness the result is a powerful and unified reading of rawls s work that explains his political turn and shows his enduring engagement with some of the deepest concerns of human life

Post-Islamist Political Theory 2017-06-22 this book deals with the concept of post islamism from a mainly philosophical perspective using political liberalism as elaborated by john rawls as the key interpretive tool what distinguishes this book from most scholarship in Iranian studies is that it primarily deals with the projects of Iranian intellectuals from a normative perspective as the concept is understood by analytical philosophers the volume includes analyses of the strengths and weakness of the arguments underlying each thinker's ideas rather than looking for their historical and sociological origins genealogy etc each chapter develops a particular conjectural argument for the possibility of an overlapping consensus between Islam and political liberalism though the arguments presented draw upon different Islamic particularly Shia resources thus while Shabestari and Soroush primarily reason from a modernist theological or Kalamī perspective M. H. Tabataba'i and Mehdi Haeri Yazdi's arguments are mainly based on traditional Islamic philosophy and Quranic exegesis while Kadivar, An-Naim and Fanaei are post-Islamist in the exact sense of the term Malekian goes beyond typical post-Islamism by proposing a theory for spirituality that constrains religion within the boundaries of enlightenment thought throughout the book specific attention is given to Ferrara and March's readings of political liberalism although the book's chapters constitute a whole they can also be read independently if the reader is only curious about particular intellectuals whose political theories are discussed
