Effects of Acid Deposition on Agricultural Production

1985

concern about acid deposition commonly referred to as acid rain as a widespread pollution problem with severe ecological consequences has heightened public awareness many authorities fear that acid deposition may be the worst environmental crisis of our industrialized society because of both the global implications and possible widespread irreversible damage to lakes soils and forested ecosystems neither state nor international boundaries are exempt from the transport and deposition of airborne pollutants resulting from local and distant emission sources the dilemma and debate will continue as long as society requires fossil fuels for its energy needs without regard to emission constraints this book started as a modest attempt to provide a status report on atmospheric transport the chemical processes which produce acidifying agents and resultant ecological and economic consequences the materials in this book have been substantially revised from those presented at the conference in 1983 it became obvious that additional chapters were required when sudden and profound changes occurring in european forests were reported it is felt that perhaps such damages could be an early warning to forested ecosystems in the northeastern united states and canada as well as other places throughout the world most importantly it is essential that gained scientific knowledge be translated into required legislation a section on policy issues was incorporated to address these concerns it is hoped that the reader will become informed and concerned enough to be involved in this global debate donald d adams halter p

the subject of acid deposition remains one of the most urgent of our contemporary environmental problems research programmes are continually redefining our understanding of cause and effect and hence the continuing need for a timely and authoritative series addressing these issues this volume seeks to review and define our contemporary understanding of acid deposition by reference to new international data and as a consequence assist the definition of our future research requirements and policy developments international contributions to the volume are drawn from the federal republic of germany the u s a canada brazil switzerland austria israel france and the united kingdom some of these nations have experienced acid deposition on a regional scale for considerable periods of time for others the phenomenon is an emerging problem this collection of papers has been compiled by invitation to eminent members of the acid deposition research community and by selection from a carefully targeted call for papers it is primarily designed to meet the needs of researchers lecturers and postgraduate students in environmental disciplines and for environmental policy makers it is of interest to professionals in related disciplines and essential as a reference text for libraries the volume is divided into four broad themes emissions chemistry and deposition ecosystem effects freshwater soils and forest systems effects on structural materials mitigation control and management each of these sections provides an overview of contemporary understanding presents new experimental or field evidence and provides guidance for our future research agenda
