attacks on the citadel of faith and about the weapons which they employ in storming the strongholds of orthodoxy it will make them more effective in their spiritual warfare this brief and popular survey of the present situation in the theological world was prepared in the hope that it might at least in some measure help those who are on the firing line to gain a better understanding of the opposing forces this is louis berkhof s systematic theology we start the study of theology with two presuppositions namely 1 that god exists and 2 that he has revealed himself in his divine word and for that reason it is not impossible for us to start with the study of god we can turn to his revelation in order to learn what he has revealed concerning himself and concerning his relation to his creatures attempts have been made in the course of time to distribute the material of dogmatics in such a way as to exhibit clearly that it is not merely in one locus but in its entirety a study of god this was done by the application of the trinitarian method which arranges the subject matter of dogmatics under the three headings of 1 the father 2 the son and 3 the holy spirit that method was applied in some of the earlier systematic works was restored to favor by hegel and can still be seen in martensen s christian dogmatics a similar attempt was made by breckenridge when he divided the subject matter of dogmatics into 1 the knowledge of god objectively considered and 2 the knowledge of god subjectively considered neither one of these can be called very more than ever teenagers need god the atonement of christ and the final state of man and the last things anyone that wishes to study theology would be wise to read this book as many in the reformed tradition hold that this book is a landmark book in its field now in larger print it may naturally be taken for granted that the question which constitutes our subject refers to the young men s societies as they at present exist in our churches societies that bear a definite religious stamp and aim at the religious training of our young men the young men who constitute these societies are almost without exception in the period of adolescence and therefore in one of the most important periods of life when the board assigned this subject to me it did not in the least doubt the need of these societies if we should draw that inference from the interrogatory form in which the subject is cast we would be doing the executives of the federation a great injustice they are firmly convinced of the necessity and importance of these societies in bringing the subject under consideration to the foreground they merely had the desire to promote a better understanding of the essential character of our young men s societies of their distinctive place as formative agencies and of their proper function in the religious development of our young men looking for a simple systematic theology or for a basic introduction to christian doctrine geared especially to high school students technical terms and detailed explanations have been avoided and important scripture passages are printed in full the greatest liberating force in the world is the gospel of jesus christ no other single agency can be pointed out that wrought such momentous changes one needs but to read such books as loring brace s gesta christi and storr s the divine origin of christianity indicated by its historical effects to be convinced of the regenerating force of the christian religion yet we should not think that on the appearance of christianity a complete new order of life immediately issued forth like minerva from the head of jupiter the proclamation of the revealed truths of god to all the world did not result in a cataclysm the transforming power of the kingdom of heaven is not compared to a sudden violent geological upheaval but to the gradual fermentation wrought by the leaven it has slowly and unobtrusively overcoming many and mighty obstacles been working its way from center to circumference christianity s march through the ages has not been one of unhampered progress but one of continual struggle with the powers of evil that contested its every advance and often turning the scale led to retrograde movements there has been action and reaction now the pendulum swung to the left and anon to the right but in and through all the movements there has been continual progress man has been led to an ever clearer conception of the truth nations that were waiting for the glad evangel have heard the voice of god and
