imperialism may be over but the political economic and cultural subjugation of social life through english has only intensified this book demonstrates how english has been newly constituted as a dominant language in post market reform india through the fervent aspirations of non elites and the zealous reforms of english language teaching experts the most recent spread of english in india has been through low fee private schools which are perceived as dubious yet efficient the book is an ethnography of mothering at one such low fee private school and its neighboring state funded school it demonstrates that political economic transitions experienced as radical social mobility fuelled intense desire for english schooling rather than english schooling leading to social mobility new experiences of mobility necessitated english schooling at the same time experts have responded to the unanticipated spread of english by transforming it from a second language to a first language and earlier hierarchies have been produced anew as access to english democratized

this book is an attempt to penetrate the silence that surrounds the lives of nurses as migrant women it offers a perceptive understanding of the trials faced specifically by women from the state of kerala in their personal and professional spheres in the challenges posed to single women migrants as such and the lower status ascribed to the job in highlighting aspects of their lived experiences it reveals how the identities of gender class and ethnicity unmask the realities behind claims of egalitarianism and equal citizenship nurses from kerala form one of the largest groups of migrant women workers in the international service sector along with filipinos and sri lankans comparatively better salaries work opportunities and financial independence along with a desire to travel across the world are often the reasons behind these migrations for many of these women the professional choice of nursing is usually the first step towards migration while finding employment in delhi the urban capital of india is intended as a transition point before they migrate abroad a trajectory which may remain unrealised in focusing on nurses who choose to work in delhi the author recounts how the patriarchy of the original place is recreated and relived in destination cities in as much as traditional stigmatisation of nursing as a dirty profession deeply entrenched gender prejudices and status and role anxieties act as deterrents these women remain undaunted in the face of adversities and treat their exposure to and experience of technology and nursing care in the bigger hospitals in delhi as part of the training that is required to apply abroad through extensive empirical research case studies and personal interviews moving with the times illustrates nurses lives in delhi providing an account of the dynamics between traditional patriarchy norms and associated identities low professional status and marginality coupled at once with the sense of personal freedom a new career and space that migration compels these women to negotiate this book will appeal to scholars of sociology gender and women s studies nursing and healthcare and those interested in migration and identities liberalization s children explores how youth and gender have become crucial sites for a contested cultural politics of globalization in india popular discourses draw a contrast between midnight s children who were rooted in post independence nehruvian developmentalism and liberalization s children who are global in outlook and unapologetically consumerist moral panics about beauty pageants and the celebration of st valentine s day reflect ambivalence about the impact of an expanding commodity culture especially on young women by simply highlighting the triumph of consumerism such discourses obscure more than they reveal through a careful analysis of consumer citizenship ritty a lukose argues that the breakdown of the nehruvian vision connects with ongoing struggles over the meanings of public life and the cultural politics of belonging those struggles play out in the ascendancy of hindu nationalism reconfigurations of youthful middle class femininity attempts by the middle class to alter understandings of citizenship and assertions of new forms of masculinity by members of lower castes moving beyond elite figurations of globalizing indian youth lukose draws on ethnographic research to examine how non elite college students in the southern state of kerala mediate region nation and globe kerala sits at the crossroads of development and globalization held up as a model of left inspired development it has also been transformed through an extensive and largely non elite transnational circulation of labor money and commodities to the persian gulf and elsewhere focusing on fashion romance student politics and education lukose carefully tracks how gender caste and class as well as colonial and postcolonial legacies of culture and power affect how students navigate their roles as citizens and consumers she explores how mass mediation and an expanding commodity culture have differentially incorporated young people into the structures and aspirational logics of globalization
