in this timely original and sophisticated collection writers from the global south demonstrate that forms of publicness are multiple mobile and varied the notion that societies mediate issues through certain kinds of engagement is at the heart of imaginings of democracy and often centers on the ideal of the public sphere but this imagined foundation of how we live collectively appears to have suffered a dramatic collapse across the world with many democracies apparently unable to solve problems through talk or even to agree on who speaks in what ways and where in the 10 essays in this timely original and sophisticated collection writers from southern africa combine theoretical analysis with the examination of historical cases and contemporary developments to demonstrate that forms of publicness are multiple mobile and varied they propose new concepts and methodologies to analyse how public engagements work in society babel unbound examines charged examples from the global south such as the centuries old timbuktu archive nelson mandela as a powerful absent presence in 1960s public life and the challenges to the terms of contemporary debate around the student activism of rhodesmustfall and feesmustfall these show how issues of public discussion span both archive and media verbal debates in formal spaces and visual performances that circulate in unpredictable ways judicial decision making may ideally be impartial but in reality it is influenced by many different factors including institutional context ideological commitment fellow justices on a panel and personal preference empirical literature in this area increasingly analyzes this complex collection of factors in isolation when a larger sample size of comparative institutional contexts can help assess the impact of the procedures norms and rules on key institutional decisions such as how appeals are decided four basic institutional questions from a comparative perspective help address these studies regardless of institutional context or government framework who decides or how is a justice appointed how does an appeal reach the court what processes occur who is before the court or how do the characteristics of the litigants and third parties affect judicial decision making how does the court decide the appeal or what institutional norms and strategic behaviors do the judges perform to obtain their preferred outcome this book explains how the answers to these institutional questions largely determine the influence of political preferences of individual judges and the degree of cooperation among judges at a given point in time the authors apply these four fundamental institutional questions to empirical work on the supreme courts of the us uk canada india and the high court of australia the ultimate purpose of this book is to promote a deeper understanding of how institutional differences affect judicial decision making using empirical studies of supreme courts in countries with similar basic structures but with sufficient differences to enable meaningful comparison the landscapes of higher education have been changing rapidly with enormous growths in participation rates in many countries across the world and major developments and changes within institutions but the languages that we need to conceptualise and understand these changes have not been keeping pace the central argument in this book is that new ways of thinking about higher education the new languages of its title are needed to understand the role of universities and colleges in contemporary society and culture and the global economy new landscapes over reliance on existing conceptualisations of higher education has made it difficult to understand fully the nature of 21st century higher education it may also have encouraged a view that there is no alternative to the development of more marketized forms of higher education the analysis offered suggests that the future is much more open it argues that familiar categories normally accepted as givens are actually more fluid systems of higher education whether expressed through direct public funding or through regulatory regimes are being eroded institutions often assumed to be to be given enhanced agency by more corporate forms of management and governance are no longer powerful actors if they ever were research often corralled by assessment and management systems is becoming more diffuse and distributed learning supposedly more focused on skill outcomes and employability retains a more broadly educative function the publicness of higher education has not disappeared as public funding has diminished but taken on new forms with contributions from leading figures drawn from a wide range of countries this book provides an authoritative analysis of many of the major issues which dominate discussion with respect to policy practice and research in the field of higher education and it can expect to become a major source book for all who are interested in the development of higher education in the 21st century
