franz boas 1858 1942 is widely regarded as the founder of american anthropology he influenced an astonishing variety of scholars and researchers from the anthropologists margaret mead and ruth benedict to the philosopher w e b dubois and novelist zora neale hurston towards the end of his life he also lectured widely in an attempt to educate the public on the dangers of nazi ideology anthropology and modern life demonstrates the incredibly rich and fertile range of boas s thought engaging with controversies that resonate loudly today the problem of race and racial types heredity versus environment the significance of intelligence tests open versus closed societies the nature versus nurture debate and nationality and nationalism believing passionately that science should be used to break down racial and cultural barriers from the book s very opening boas shatters the myth that anthropology is simply a collection of curious facts about exotic peoples thanks to boas s influence anthropologists and other social scientists began to see that differences among the races resulted not from physiological factors but from historical events and circumstances and that race itself was a cultural construct this routledge classics edition includes a new foreword by regna darnell and an introduction and afterword by herbert s lewis who details franz boas s life influence and ideals in writing the present book i desired to show that some

The Tempo of Modern Life

modern life is full of minor but acute dilemmas we get stuck at a gathering with someone unusually boring and wonder how to move on without causing offence in the course of introducing one friend to another we realise that we have forgotten one of the party s names we run into an ex while on an early date with a new partner we spill red wine across a host s sofa such dilemmas might at one level seem desperately insignificant but they actually belong to some of the largest and most serious themes in social existence how can you pursue our own agenda for happiness while at the same time honouring the sensitivities and wishes of others how can you convey goodwill with sincerity how can you be kind without being supine or sentimental these dilemmas were once covered by books on etiquette or manners the modern age often doesn t seem to value manners equating them with an old fashioned stuffiness instead we are advised to communicate our feelings and tell it the way it really is but the result in practice is that we are often confused as to how to act around others and discharge our obligations to them this book puts good manners back at the centre of our lives it features twenty case studies on common social dilemmas and our possible responses to them contributing to a new and original philosophy of graceful conduct manners are far from negligible fancies they stand at the day to day end of a hugely grand and dignified mission which the school of life is committed to the creation of a kinder and more considerate world today's film scholars draw from a dizzying range of theoretical perspectives they're just as likely to cite philosopher Gilles Deleuze as they are to quote classic film theorist André Bazin to students first encountering them these theoretical lenses for viewing film can seem exhilarating but also overwhelming thinking in the dark introduces readers to twenty-one key theorists whose work has made a great impact on film scholarship today including Rudolf Arnheim Sergei Eisenstein Michel Foucault Siegfried Kracauer and Judith Butler rather than just discussing each theorist's ideas in the abstract the book shows how those concepts might be applied when interpreting specific films by including an analysis of both a classic film and a contemporary one it thus demonstrates how theory can help us better appreciate films from philosophy a wry and accessible investigation into how the desirable states of wellbeing and satisfaction are constantly undermined by modern life michael foley examines the elusive condition of happiness common to philosophy spiritual teachings and contemporary psychology then shows how these are becoming increasingly difficult to apply in a world of high expectations the common challenges of earning a living maintaining a relationship and ageing are becoming battlegrounds of existential angst and self loathing in a culture that demands conspicuous consumption high octane partnerships and perpetual youth foley presents an entertaining strategy of not just accepting but embracing today's world finding happiness in its absurdity the old humanistic model aiming at universalism ecumenism and the globalization of various western systems of values and beliefs is no longer adequate even if it pleads for an ever wider inclusion of other cultural perspectives and for intercultural dialogue in contrast it would be wise to retain a number of its assumptions and practices which it incidentally shares with humanistic models outside the western world we must now reconsider and remap it in terms of a larger global reference frame this anthology does just that thus contributing to a new field of study and practice that could be called intercultural humanism

we all live our daily lives surrounded by the products of technology that make what we do simpler faster and more efficient these are benefits we often just take for granted but at the same time as these products disburden us of unwanted tasks that consumed much time and effort in earlier eras many of them also leave us more disengaged from our natural and even human surroundings it is the task of what gene moriarty calls focal engineering to create products that will achieve a balance between disburdenment and engagement how much disburdenment will be appropriate while still permitting an engagement that enriches one s life elevates the spirit and calls forth a good life in a convivial society one of his examples of a focally engineered structure is the golden gate bridge which draws people to it enlivens and this text is an essay on the relationship between ways of thinking the rich seams of contemporary thought and the forms of the house of planning and living in it the descriptive method is based on seven guided visits to a group of real or imaginary houses that make up a sufficiently extended panorama for understanding what the 20th century has bequeathed to us in the way of a heritage in order to choose the houses to visit it was necessary to narrow things down simplify them by highlighting a series of archetypes defined by their most pronounced features the reader then won t find any of the masterworks built by modern architects neither the villa savoye nor fallingwater nor the villa tugendhat but mostly imaginary houses houses constructed by manipulating different references in short this book it is not always a comfortable position to question the position of a good majority however it is known that the majority can sometimes be wrong or see things differently it takes courage and a particularly critical mind to question the depth of the christian faith in a land seen as the future of christianity in africa as a priest with some pastoral experience both in africa and in europe the author is at home with the subject matter in this book he accepts the fact of the growing numbers in the churches but questions the depth of conviction in the face of the problems arising from the clash of values between christian faith and igbo traditional religion he maintains that if god saw enough reasons to create men differently and revealed himself differently to them he god accepts that men have different understandings of his relationship with them and that they may relate with him using what is available to them their culture and tradition
