everywoman a coalition of women s organizations and formations currently numbering 11 combined with individual women affiliates and backed up by a facebook page with more than 100 000 followers was formally organized in august 2017 for the purpose of defending democracy and upholding women s rights and dignity at a time when these are under severe attack not only in the philippines but globally we had come together cutting across diverse socioeconomic ethnic professional ideological and generational backgrounds to propel organized pushback against the further erosion of civic also civil space and of the status and rights that filipino women have fought hard to attain and have won over the years as such our actions in the past years have tended towards the loud and dramatic in the streets in public fora in stinging public statements often joining our voice with those of our allied hubs in tindig pilipinas a book had no space in our crowded blueprint for 2020 but then the covid 19 pandemic happened as with everyone else everywoman s world was turned upside down needing to get back our bearings personally organizationally politically we started discussions to try to understand the situation better including the nature of this global health crisis how it was affecting different aspects of our national life how it was especially reshaping women s lives on the ground how government was responding or not the role of the private sector and other institutions the plight of ordinary citizens we probed our own areas of work and engagement we invited friends and colleagues where we needed help we saw it to be our responsibility to continue to surface and strengthen women s perspectives and agency in these difficult and extraordinary times and thus this book was born emerging from every woman talking to each other and claiming our space to speak up and be heard intent to make a difference especially since we saw no women at the frontlines of the national task force set up by the president to respond to the crisis the underappreciation of the pivotal roles played by home school and community in shaping the literacy journey of individuals while the mantra literacy begins at home resonates it often remains a mere platitude rather than a transformative force the synergy between these three pillars is essential yet gaps persist hindering the development of a truly literate society as children tread the academic path the home lays the foundation and schools amplify these efforts however the holistic nature of learning encompassing life experiences demands a collaborative approach from families educators and communities this is the crux of the problem a disjointed system that impedes the seamless development of literacy across diverse backgrounds improving literacy through home school and community partnerships is a groundbreaking book that unravels the complexities of this challenge and illuminates the transformative potential within collaborative efforts by delving into the dynamic interplay between home school and community the book offers a roadmap to bridge existing gaps and forge a path toward a more literate society early career researchers will find this a valuable resource to identify and address these gaps while families educators community leaders and policymakers will gain invaluable perspectives to inform their practices policies and research initiatives while the philippines has achieved remarkable progress in raising the education level of its labor force the standard proxy for educational attainment years of formal schooling is increasingly inadequate as a measure of workforce skills about one third of employers report being unable to fill vacancies due to lack of applicants with the requisite skills most of these missing skills are socioemotional skills also known as non cognitive skills soft skills or behavioral skills emerging international evidence suggests that socioemotional skills are increasingly crucial to the types of jobs being created by the global economy the following study presents new evidence from employer and household surveys on the role of socioemotional skills in the philippine labor market the analysis reveals that two thirds of employers report difficulty in finding workers with adequate work ethics or appropriate interpersonal and communications skills firm based training increasingly focuses on socioemotional skills the more educated and employed workers tend to score higher on measures of grit decision making agreeableness and extroversion socioemotional skills are associated with an increase in average daily earnings in particular for women young workers less educated workers and those employed in the service sector higher levels of socioemotional skills are also correlated with a greater probability of being employed having completed secondary education and pursuing tertiary education studies suggest that primary school is the optimal age for shaping socioemotional skills but the philippines elementary education curriculum devotes limited resources to their development schools continue to be judged solely by students performance in cognitive achievement tests but not on soft skills competencies and teachers are not appropriately trained to foster the development of them finally interventions targeting workers entering the labor force can also effectively bolster their socioemotional skills complementing effects to improve labor market information and vocational counseling this book states that whilst academic research has long been grounded on the idea of western or scientific epistemologies this often does not capture the uniqueness of indigenous contexts and particularly as it relates to the achievement of the united nations sustainable development goals sdgs the sdgs were announced in 2015 accompanied by 17 goals and 169 targets these goals are the means through which agenda 2030 for sustainable development is to be pursued and realised over the next 15 years and the contributions of indigenous peoples are essential to achieving these goals indigenous peoples can be found in practically every region of the world living on ancestral homelands in major cities rainforests mountain regions desert plains the arctic and small pacific islands their languages knowledges and values are rooted in the landscapes and natural resources within their territories however many indigenous peoples are now minorities within their homelands and globally and there is a dearth of research based on indigenous epistemologies and methodologies furthermore academic research on indigenous peoples is typically based on western lenses thus the paucity of indigenous methodologies within mainstream research discourses present challenges for implementing practical research designs and interpretations that can address epistemological distinctiveness within indigenous communities there is therefore the need to articulate as well as bring to the nexus of research aimed at fostering sustainable development a decolonising perspective in research design and practice this is what this book wants to achieve the contributions critically reflect on indigenous approaches to research design and implementation towards achieving the sustainable development goals as well as the associated challenges and opportunities the contributions also advanced knowledge theory and practice of indigenous methodologies for sustainable development
