one of the few studies of imperialism to concentrate on southeast asia tarling s work focuses on the establishment of political control from 1870 to 1914 and analyses attempts to re establish control after the second world war in this volume a number of friends and colleagues pay tribute to nicholas tarling a distinguished scholar who has spent a career illuminating the impact and legacy of european power on southeast asia the contributions range widely from the early modern societies of borneo to the rise and decline of european imperialism to twentieth century expressions of nationhood and nationalism in his own work tarling creates a blend of local international cultural and intellectual history this volume tries to do the same as the contributors tell stories full of incident and ideas publisher s description includes british policy in the straits of malacca to 1819 and the collapse of the traditional malay state structure dianne lewis sir john anderson in malaya 1904 1911 khoo kay kim overseas japanese overseas chinese and british justice 1931 ian nish law and order british management of malayan communism during the interwar years 1919 1942 c f yong writing a history of brunei leonard andaya and the legacy of british rule in hong kong and its interaction with beijing s objectives john wong imperialism in southeast asia examines its subject against a backdrop of those countries that could at a given time be called imperialist britain france spain the netherlands and the us examining the imperialist phenomenon from this wide ranging perspective reveals imperialism as driven by rivalry it also facilitates comparison imperialism has elements in common yet differs according to the territory in which it operates this is one of the few studies of imperialism to concentrate on southeast asia nicholas tarling s definition of imperialism focuses on the establishment of political control from 1870 to 1914 moving forward in time the author analyses attempts to re establish control after the overthrow of imperial regimes in the second world war most recently southeast asia has become a region of independent states and tarling discusses imperial ventures as forms of state building at the same time his discussion reflects another contemporary concern globalisation and the relationship of the state to that process nicolas tarling is an eminent writer in asian history his latest book will be of great interest to all those studying or involved in asian studies history and politics the six volumes that make up this unique set provide an extensive overview of colonialism in south east asia in the majority of cases authors chosen were specialists writing about their individual areas of expertise and had first hand experience in the region outline of contents i imperialism before 1800 edited by peter borschberg ii empire building in the nineteenth century iii high imperialism iv imperial decline nationalism and the japanese challenge v peaceful transitions to independence vi independence through violent struggle this volume is a festschrift for damodar ramaji sardesai b 1931 professor emeritus of history at the university of california los angeles ucla where all of the contributors received their ph d as did sardesai himself his work for over fifty years at ucla has been an inspiration to generations of students and he has made major contributions to the world of learning and in his chosen areas of specialization of india especially its foreign policy with regard to southeast asia imperialism and the history of the modern european empires and southeast asia he has served as chair of the history department at ucla as well as bombay university and president of the asiatic society of bombay the volume includes a biographical introduction and a bibliographic essay on sardesai s major writings and contains new and cutting edge essays on the design of imperial vijayanagara famine policy in colonial india and how european imperialist policies created or exacerbated the impact of famines the relatively unknown chapter of chinese gordon s brief indian career reflections on the tamil humanist a madhaviah a man ahead of his time nationalism and the career of industrialist g d birla gandhi s friend the chindia problematic india and china relations the state of philippine historiography and its nationalist impulses the role of vietnamese highlanders in the vietnamese nationalist struggle and their recent plight early malayan nationalism and the efforts of american administrators to protect philippine highland natives from being forced to participate in international exhibitions as curiosities from the american colony this collection of essays collects the leading scholars on british colonial thought in southeast asia to consider the question what was the relationship between liberalism and the british empire in southeast asia the empire builders in southeast asia lord minto william farquhar john leyden thomas stamford raffles and john crawford to name a few were fervent believers in a liberal free trade order in southeast asia many recent studies of british imperialism and european imperialism more generally have addressed how the anti imperialist tradition of eighteenth century liberalism was increasingly intertwined with the discourses of empire freedom race and economics in the nineteenth century this collection extends those studies to look at the impact of liberalism on british colonialism in southeast asia and early nineteenth century southeast asia we see some of the first attempts at developing multicultural democracies within the colonies experiments in free trade and attempts to use free trade to prevent war and colonisation the period when the british were establishing political and commercial hegemony in southeast asia also saw the foundation of the present day asian tiger economies webster traces the steps leading to the consolidation of british interest traditionally the tumultuous period 1930 50 in south east asia has been viewed as a dichotomy of european vs asian or imperialist vs nationalist this highly acclaimed volume presents another triangular perspective and challenges established wisdom about the period the idea of race played an increasing role in nineteenth century british colonial thought for most of the nineteenth century john crawford towered over british colonial policy in south east asia being not only a colonial administrator journalist and professional lobbyist but also one of the key racial theorists in the british empire he approached colonialism as a radical liberal proposing universal voting for all races in british colonies and believing all races should have equal legal rights yet at the same time he also believed that races represented distinct species of people who were unrelated this book charts the development of crawford s ideas from the brief but dramatic period of british rule in java to his political campaigns against james brooke and british rule in borneo central to crawford s political battles were the debates he had with his contemporaries such as stamford raffles and william marsden over the importance of race and his broader challenge to universal ideas of history which questioned the racial unity of humanity the book taps into little explored manuscripts newspapers and writings to uncover the complexity of a leading nineteenth century political and racial thinker whose actions and ideas provide a new view of british liberal colonial and racial thought southeast asia has on the basis of the nation state secured both a large measure of interstate peace and cooperation and a degree of autonomy from great powers outside the region asean both represents that position and promotes it but it also depends on the attitude of the great powers the six volumes that make up this unique set provide an extensive overview of colonialism in south east asia in the majority of cases authors chosen were specialists writing about their individual areas of expertise and had first hand experience in the region outline of contents i imperialism before 1800 edited by peter borschberg ii empire building in the nineteenth century iii high imperialism iv imperial decline nationalism and the japanese challenge v peaceful transitions to independence vi independence through violent struggle a discussion on the definition of imperialism and how it is situated in asia both by area and by time a resource for students to consider options for the term imperialism and to appraise its often unqualified use in domestic and international politics in more recent times colonial armies in southeast asia offers the reader an accessible journey through southeast asia from pre colonial times to the present day with themes ranging from conquest and management to decolonization the six volumes that make up this unique set provide an extensive overview of colonialism in south east asia in the majority of cases authors chosen were specialists writing about their individual areas of expertise and had first hand experience in the region outline of contents i imperialism before 1800 edited by peter borschberg ii empire building in the nineteenth century iii high imperialism iv imperial decline nationalism and the japanese challenge v peaceful transitions to independence vi independence through violent struggle regionalism in southeast asia provides the reader with an historical analysis of southeast asia from the distinct perspective of regionalism southeast asian history is usually written from a national point of view which underplays the links between neighbouring states and nations and the effects of these bonds on the development of regionalism this innovative book begins by defining the meaning of region and regionalism and then applies it to periods in history in southeast asia looking at how patterns of regionalism have shifted through time to the present day by focusing on the regional perspective nicholas tarling gives an original treatment of southeast asian history its political dynamics and its international relations regionalism in southeast asia completes a trilogy of books on southeast asia by nicholas tarling published by routledge the other two are nationalism in southeast asia and imperialism in southeast asia did european imperialism invent asian religion casting faiths brings together eleven scholars to show how western law governance education and mission in east and southeast asia shaped the basic understanding of what religion is and what role it should play in society but as these essays show western ideas were not always imposed at gunpoint in places like burma or indonesia many of these changes were initiated by european imperialism yet they also reached places like china which was never colonized and japan which had an empire of its own and decades after the empires were dismantled we can still see their effects in asian societies today provided by publisher arc of containment recasts the history of american empire in southeast and east asia from world war ii through the end of american intervention in vietnam setting aside the classic story of anxiety about falling dominoes wen qing ngoei articulates a new regional history premised on strong security and sure containment guaranteed by anglo american cooperation ngoei argues that anticommunist nationalism in southeast asia intersected with preexisting local antipathy toward china and the chinese diaspora to usher the region from european dominated colonialism to us hegemony central to this revisionary strategic assessment is the place of british power and the effects of direct neocolonial military might and less overt cultural influences based in decades of colonial rule also essential to the analysis in arc of containment is the considerable influence of southeast asian actors upon anglo american imperial strategy throughout the post war period in arc of containment ngoei shows how the pro us trajectory of southeast asia after the pacific war was in fact far more characteristic of the wider region s history than american policy failure in vietnam indeed by the early 1970s five key anticommunist nations malaya singapore philippines thailand and indonesia had quashed chinese influenced socialist movements at home and established with u s support a geostrategic arc of states that contained the vietnamese revolution and encircled china in the process the euro american colonial order of southeast asia passed from an era of anglo american predominance into a condition of us hegemony arc of containment demonstrates that american failure in vietnam had less long term consequences than widely believed because british pro west nationalism had been firmly entrenched twenty plus years earlier in effect ngoei argues the cold war in southeast asia was but one violent chapter in the continuous history of western imperialism in the region in the twentieth century this reflective and provocative 1998 book outlines the emergence of the nation states of modern southeast asia it considers various ways of looking at southeast asian history combining narrative analysis and discussion the book focuses mainly on the period from the eighteenth century to the present it is divided into three sections the first gives a broad historical overview of indonesia malaysia singapore brunei the philippines burma myanmar vietnam and siam thailand the second reflects in a comparative context on significant problems in understanding southeast asia s past and present the third explores the current state of writing southeast asian history underlying the discussion is an awareness of how ongoing tensions between east and west shape history and frame the present this book reflects a lifetime s scholarship and will become a major interpretive synthesis of modern southeast asia this cutting edge collection presents a political reading of the power of modern sport in asia providing an interdisciplinary study of political and cultural tensions in asia past and present through the key case study of sport it illuminates the complex practices and legacies of japanese imperialism across east and southeast asia through the 20th century and beyond focusing on the deep background to contemporary dynamics of intraregional tensions it examines sport both as a tool of imperialism and as an agent of reconciliation as the region gears up to the 2020 olympics in tokyo offering a unique contribution to east asian studies colonial and postcolonial studies and sport studies this work represent key reading for students and scholars of east asian studies international politics and sports diplomacy the nations of southeast asia today are rapidly integrating economically and politically but that integration is also counterbalanced by forces ranging from hyper nationalism to disputes over cultural ownership throughout the region those forces farish a noor argues in this book have their roots in the region s failure to come to a critical understanding of how current national and cultural identities in the region came about to remedy that noor offers a close account of the construction of southeast asia in the nineteenth century by the forces of capitalism and imperialism and shows how that construct remains a potent aspect of political economic and cultural disputes today for over a century french officials in indochina systematically uprooted metis children those born of southeast asian mothers and white african or indian fathers from their homes in many cases and for a wide range of reasons death divorce the end of a romance a return to france or because the birth was the result of rape the father had left the child in the mother s care although the program succeeded in rescuing homeless children from life on the streets for those in their mothers care it was disastrous citing an 1889 french law and claiming that raising children in the southeast asian cultural milieu was tantamount to abandonment colonial officials sought permanent protective custody of the children the uprooted offers an in depth investigation of the colony s child removal program the motivations behind it reception of it and resistance to it the study of the history of southeast asia is still growing evolving deepening and changing as an academic field over the past few decades historians have added nuance to traditional topics such as islam and nationalism and created new ones such as gender globalization and the politics of memory now available in paperback the routledge handbook of southeast asian history looks at the major themes that have developed in the study of modern southeast asian history since the mid 18th century contributions by experts in the field are clustered under three major headings political history economic history and social and cultural history and chapters challenge the boundaries between topics and regions alongside the rise and fall of colonialism topics include conflict in southeast asia tropical ecology capitalism and its discontents the major religions of the region gender and ethnicity the handbook provides a stimulating introduction to the most important themes within the subject area and is an invaluable reference work for any student and researcher on southeast asia and asian and world history by the 1890s siam thailand was the melanesia and micronesia the modern architecture of these culturally and nationally heterogenous regions echoes local vernacular traditions and colonial as well as postcolonial hegemonies from both the east and the west the book tells the stories of these separate roots and their culmination into contemporary architectural production analyzing the distinctiveness and quality of approx 65 building projects that have emerged in the past half century at the international level the twentieth century was characterized by the rise in national self determination in the third world and by the rise of us power this book analyzes the dynamics of the changing relationships between the united states and states seeking decolonization within the contexts of the us relationship with the european colonial powers the cold war and the economic system its scope is broad in both space and time this collection of articles brings together leading scholars as well as recently qualified authors on a subject that was confined in the cold war paradigm but ultimately needs to transcend it the routledge history of disease draws on innovative scholarship in the history of medicine to explore the challenges involved in writing about health and disease throughout the past and across the globe presenting a varied range of case studies and perspectives on the patterns technologies and narratives of disease that can be identified in the past and that continue to influence our present organized thematically chapters examine particular forms and conceptualizations of disease covering subjects from leprosy in medieval europe and cancer screening practices in twentieth century usa to the ayurvedic tradition in ancient india and the pioneering studies of mental illness that took place in nineteenth century paris as well as discussing the various sources and methods that can be used to understand the social and cultural contexts of disease chapter 24 of this book is freely available as a downloadable open access pdf under a creative commons attribution non commercial no derivatives 3 0 license routledgehandbooks.com/doi/10.4324/9781315543420.ch24 the chinese maritime customs service which was led by british staff is often seen as one of the key agents of western imperialism in china the customs revenue being one of the major sources of chinese government income but a source much of which was pledged to western banks as the collateral for and interests payments on massive loans this book however based on extensive original research considers the lower level staff of the chinese maritime customs service and shows how the chinese government struggling to master western expertise in many areas pursued a deliberate policy of encouraging lower level staff to learn from their western superiors with a view to eventually supplanting them a policy which was successfully carried out the book thereby demonstrates that chinese engagement with western imperialists was in fact an essential part of chinese national state building and that what looked like a key branch of chinese government delegated to foreigners was in fact very much under chinese government control
