In the Shadow of the Great War 2019-10-07 although scholars in the environmental humanities have been exploring the dichotomy between wild and built environments for several years few have focused on the field of disability studies a discipline that enlists the contingency between environments and bodies as a foundation of its scholarship on the other hand scholars in disability studies have demonstrated the ways in which the built environment privileges some bodies and minds over others yet they have rarely examined the ways in which toxic environments engender chronic illness and disability or how environmental illnesses disrupt dominant paradigms for scrutinizing disability designed as a reader for undergraduate and graduate courses disability studies and the environmental humanities employs interdisciplinary perspectives to examine such issues as slow violence imperialism race toxicity eco sickness the body in environmental justice ableism and other topics with a historical scope spanning the seventeenth century to the present this collection not only presents the foundational documents informing this intersection of fields but also showcases the most current work making it an indispensable reference

Industries of New Jersey: Morris, Hunterdon, Warren and Sussex counties 1883 our contemporary world presents a seemingly inexplicable paradox it is a world where interaction among societies of different cultural traditions has never been easier a world in which modern technology has visibly overcome the physical barriers that had long condemned the majority of men to relative isolation from one another yet our world is also one in which the illusion of a lost original cultural or religious identity grounded by a metaphysical absolute pits men against one another a physically more accessible world has thus become an increasingly fundamentalist one in this book written in the wake of such influential european thinkers as nietzsche heidegger foucault derrida and vattimo simon oliai analyzes the conceptual underpinnings of this paradox and argues that unless the european affirmation of man s finite existence becomes universal we shall never rid ourselves to echo nietzsche
