Life for the main character Daniel Howard begins with his birth in New Orleans in 1902. His father is a prominent Methodist preacher from a successful and influential Creole family. The Howard's family motto is "work save educate." His mother operates a no-name school for children who cannot attend regular school during the day. His paternal grandmother, Grandma Howard, chiefly commands the Howard family business interests. She is extremely color-conscious, preferring the lighter hue and Creole heritage. In his pre-teen years, Daniel Howard is often in trouble for being sighted on Bourbon or Basin streets tap dancing and yearning to play the piano in the blues clubs and juke joints. Through his lens, the reader is introduced to his view of New Orleans, to include the lively scenes in the French Quarter, Mardi Gras, Voodoo Congo Square, and life in a vibrant port city among many other experiences. His maternal grandmother, Nana, heads the maternal side of his family. Nana is a widow and illiterate and resides in a tin-roofed former slave cabin outside of New Orleans. She is an extremely religious woman and ekes out a meager living as a maid. She is also the local midwife and tends to the sick with herb potions. She still grieves that her son Lester was dragged from her cabin one dark night and lynched. After graduating from college, he is recruited to teach in a small impoverished town in the Mississippi Delta where, despite his hopes and desire to make a difference, hardships and humiliations await him and his new bride, Miss Emma.

On August 7, 1970, a revolt by Black prisoners in a Marin County courthouse stunned the nation. In its aftermath, Angela Davis, an African American activist and scholar who had campaigned vigorously for prisoners' rights, was placed on the FBI's ten most wanted list. Captured in New York City two months later, she was charged with murder, kidnapping, and conspiracy. Her trial, chronicled in this compelling tale, publishers weekly brought strong public indictment. The Morning Breaks is a riveting firsthand account of Davis's ordeal and her ultimate triumph, written by an activist in the student civil rights and antiwar movements who was intimately involved in the struggle for her release. First published in 1975 and praised by the nation for its graphic narrative of davis s legal and public fight the morning breaks remains relevant today as the nation contends with the political fallout of the sixties and the grim consequences of institutional racism for this edition bettina aptheker has provided an introduction that revisits crucial events of the late 1960s and early 1970s and puts davis s case into the context of that time and our own from the killings at kent state and jackson state to the politics of the prison system today this book gives a first hand account of the worldwide movement for angela davis s freedom and of her trial it offers a unique historical perspective on the case and its continuing significance in the contemporary political landscape that white americans continue to insist upon a white christ in the face of all historical evidence to the contrary and despite the hundreds of shrines to black madonnas all over the world is the crowning demonstration of their white supremacist conviction that all things good and valuable must be white on the other hand until black christians are ready to challenge this lie they have not freed themselves from their spiritual bondage to the white man nor established in their own minds their right to first class citizenship in christ s kingdom on earth
