prehistory ancient egypt the romans northern europe and much more why mark twain media mark twain media publishing company specializes in providing captivating supplemental books and decorative resources to complement middle and upper grade classrooms designed by leading educators the product line covers a range of subjects including mathematics sciences language arts social studies history government fine arts and character over the past fifteen years northeast asia has witnessed growing intraregional exchanges and interactions especially in the realms of culture and economy still the region cannot escape from the burden of history this book examines the formation of historical memory in four northeast asian societies china japan south korea and taiwan and the united states focusing on the period from the beginning of the sino japanese war in 1931 until the formal conclusion of the pacific war with the san francisco peace treaty of 1951 the contributors analyse the recent efforts of korean japanese and chinese scholars to write a common history of northeast asia and question the underlying motivations for their efforts and subsequent achievements in doing so they contend that the greatest obstacle to reconciliation in northeast asia lies in the existence of divided and often conflicting historical memories the book argues that a more fruitful approach lies in understanding how historical memory has evolved in each country and been incorporated into respective master narratives through uncovering the existence of different master narratives it is hoped citizens will develop a more self critical self reflective approach to their own history and that such an introspective effort has the potential to lay the foundation for greater self and mutual understanding and eventual historical reconciliation in the region this book will be essential reading for students and scholars of asian history asian education and international relations in east asia racism is still very prevalent and pervasive in all aspects of the p 12 educational experience in the united states far too many teachers and administrators continue to respond to this challenge by applying colorblind perspectives and approaches this edited volume provides a broad and comprehensive critique of colorblindness in various educational contexts in an attempt to advocate for a more color conscious approach to education this book deals with a wide range of issues related to teaching learning curriculum creativity assessment discipline implicit bias and teacher education there are three distinct features that make this book so important and relevant given the current social and racial climate in u s schools today first each chapter in this book draws from a plethora of different theoretical perspectives related to race and racism in this sense readers are equipped with variety of robust theoretical perspectives to better understand this complicated issue of racism in schools second this book communicates issues of race and racism through multiple voices unlike other books on race and racism where the central voice is that of a researcher or scholar this book centralizes the voices and perspectives of researchers teachers and teacher educators alike as a result readers are better able to understand issues of race and racism in schools from a more nuanced perspective finally unlike other books related to race and racism in schools this book provides readers with practical strategies for combating racism in their respective educational contexts in this tutorial students will learn how to understand their textbook as a historical source practice the skills of history identify their textbook s learning aids and learn to read and use the images graphics appendix and back matter students are guided through basic skills needed for success in their history course freeing instructors to spend class time focusing on content and interpretation and activities graphic organizers time lines and answer key the third book in edward eggleston s american history series originally published in 1888 it accomplishes a rare feat for a history textbook it is a treasure for adults too the unique book remains a compelling and comprehensive study of america s past arranged by topic the former president of the american history association includes over 400 maps and illustrations fill in exercises pronunciations suggestions for diagrams reviews and blackboard exercises that stimulate and test one s knowledge this book examines the shifting portrayal of the nation in school textbooks in 14 countries during periods of rapid political social and economic change drawing on a range of analytic strategies the authors examine history and civics textbooks and the teaching of such texts along with other prominent curricular materials children s readers a required text penned by the head of state a holocaust curriculum etc the authors analyze the uses of history and pedagogy in building reinforcing and or redefining the nation and state especially in the light of challenges to its legitimacy the primary focus is on countries in developing or transitional contexts issues include the teaching of democratic civics in a multiethnic state with little history of democratic governance shifts in teaching about the khmer rouge in post conflict cambodia children s readers used to define national space in former republics of the soviet union the development of holocaust education in a context where citizens were both victims and perpetrators of violence the creation of a national past in turkmenistan and so forth the case studies are supplemented by commentary an introduction and conclusion history lessons offers a lighthearted and fascinating challenge to the biases we bring to our understanding of american history the subject of widespread attention when it was first published in 2004 including a full front page review in the washington post book world and features on nprs talk of the nation and the history channel this book gives us a glimpse into classrooms across the globe where opinions about the united states are first formed heralded as timely and important history news network and shocking and fascinating new york times history lessons includes selections from russia france iran saudi arabia cuba canada and others covering such events as the american revolution the cuban missile crisis the iran hostage crisis and the korean war providing an alternative history of the united states from the viking explorers to the post cold war era by juxtaposing starkly contrasting versions of the historical events we take for granted history lessons affords us a sometimes hilarious often sobering look at what the world learns about americas past this book focuses on discourses of the politics of history education and history textbooks it offers a new insight into understanding of the nexus between ideology the state and nation building as depicted in history education and school textbooks it especially focuses on the interpretation of social and political change significant events looking for possible biases and omissions leadership and the contribution of key individuals and continuities the book discusses various aspects of historical narratives and some selected key events in defining identity and nation building it considers the role of historiography in dominant historical narratives it analyses history education in both local and global settings and its significance in promoting values education and intercultural and global understanding it is argued that historical narratives add pedagogies grounded in constructivist metacognitive and transformational paradigms have the power to engage the learner in significant and meaningful learning experiences informed by multiple discourses of our historical narratives and those of other nations this book analyses the efforts throughout east asia to deploy education for purposes of political socialization and in particular in order to shape notions of identity the chapters also examine the trend of common textbook initiatives which have recently emerged in east asia with the aim of helping to defuse tensions arguably fuelled by existing practices of mutual mis representation these are analysed in relation to the east asian political context and compared with previous and ongoing endeavours in other parts of the world particularly europe which have been keenly observed by east asian practitioners written by a group of international education experts chapters discuss the enduring focus on the role of curricula in inculcating homogenous visions of the national self and indeed homogenized visions of significant others including contributions from scholars and curriculum developers involved personally in the writing of national and multi national history textbooks this book will be of interest to students and scholars of asian education asian history and comparative education studies gotelind müller is professor of chinese studies university of heidelberg germany china france russia saudi arabia canada mexico north korea egypt cuba great britain south africa iran india this book explores how school history textbooks are used to perpetuate nationalistic policies within divided regions exploring the divide and rule politics across ex yugoslav successor states the editors and contributors draw upon a wide range of case studies from across the region textbooks and other educational media provide the foundations upon which the new generation build understanding about their own context and the events that are creating their present by promoting nationalistic politics in such media textbooks themselves can be used as tools to further promote and preserve ongoing hostility between ethnic groups following periods of conflict this edited collection will appeal to scholars of educational media history education and post conflict societies this book examines the evolving representations of the colonial past from the mid 19th century up to decolonisation in the 1960s and 70s the so called era of modern imperialism in post war history textbooks from across the world the aim of the book is to examine the evolving outlook of colonial representations in history education and the underpinning explanations for the specific outlook in different former colonizer and colonised countries to be found in collective memory popular historical culture social representations identity building processes and the state of historical knowledge within academia the approach of the book is novel and innovative in different ways first of all given the complexity of the research an original interdisciplinary approach has been implemented which brings together historians history educators and social psychologists to examine representations of colonialism in history education in different countries around the world while drawing on different theoretical frameworks secondly given the interest in the interplay between collective memory popular historical culture social representations and the state of historical knowledge within academia a diachronic approach is implemented examining the evolving representations of the colonial past and connecting them to developments within society at large and academia nc
