collingwood 1889 1943 was one of the most important philosophers of the 20th century with his work spanning theory of knowledge metaphysics philosophy of art philosophy of history and social and political philosophy the full range and reach of collingwood's philosophical thought is covered by peter skagestad in this study following collingwood's education and his oxford career skagestad considers his relationship with prominent italian philosophers croce and de ruggiero and the british idealists taking collingwood's publications in order he explains under what circumstances they were produced and the reception of his work by his contemporaries and by posterity from religion and philosophy 1916 and speculum mentis 1923 to the posthumously published the idea of history 1946 featuring full coverage of collingwood's philosophy of art skagestad also considers his argument in response to a j ayer that metaphysics is the historical study of absolute presuppositions most importantly skagestad reveals how relevant collingwood is today through his concept of barbarism as a perceptive diagnosis of totalitarianism and his prescient warning of the rise of populism in the 21st century this book addresses the apparent contradiction in moral condemnation of good artworks since there is no direct contradiction it must involve a third thing that connects aesthetic value and moral value a significant view about this third thing results from combining rg collingwood's aesthetic and moral theories and articulating a theory of judgment on his behalf the view is that an artwork is aesthetically good if the artist fulfilled the moral duty to express emotion successfully why this matters and how it fits into the larger conversation about morality and art round out this book's study book jacket this book argues that rg collingwood's philosophy is best understood as a diagnosis of and response to a crisis of western civilisation the various and complementary aspects of the crisis of civilisation are explored and collingwood is demonstrated to be working in the traditions of romanticism and historicism on these subjects the theories of collingwood and ortega y gasset are contrasted with those of nietzsche and weber many philosophers have been interested in aesthetics but collingwood was passionate about art his theories were never merely theoretical contribution to the philosophy of history describes how the modern idea of history has grown from the time of herodotus to the present day collingwood and hegel r g collingwood was a lonely thinker begrudgingly admired by some and bludgeoned by others he failed to train a single disciple just as he failed to communicate to the reading public his vision of the unity of experience this failure stands in stark contrast to the success of georg wilhelm friedrich hegel who won many disciples to a very similar point of view and whose influence on subsequent thought having been rediscovered since 1920 has not yet been adequately explored collingwood and hegel share three fundamental similarities both men held overwhelming admiration of the greeks both possessed uniquely broad knowledge of academic controversies of their day and both were inalterably convinced that human experience constitutes a single whole if experts find collingwood's vision of wholeness less satisfactory than hegel's much of the fault lies in the atmosphere in which collingwood labored oxford in the 1920s and 1930s sceptical and specialized was not the enthusiastic heidelberg and berlin of 1816 to 1831 what is important in collingwood is not that he fell short of hegel but that working under adverse conditions he came so close indeed those unfamiliar with hegel will find in collingwood's early works especially in speculum mentis a useful introduction to the great german r g collingwood's name is familiar to historians and history educators around the world few however have charted the depths of boucher argues for the importance of this political theory and provides a perspicuous account of its development and originality he contends that the new leviathan is an attempt to reconcile philosophy and history theory and practice collingwood's distinctive contribution to modern political and social thought is seen as his sustained project of distinguishing utility from right and right from duty the passion for history coincides with the ethical thought because collingwood wishes to identify dutiful or moral action with a historical civilization drawing on a wealth of manuscript
