one of the predominant trends of modern society is the pervasive presence of competition no longer just a function of economic markets or democratic systems competition has become a favoured tool for governing people and organizations from the provision of schooling and elder care to the way we consume popular culture yet social scientists have played a surprisingly modest role in analysing its implications as the discussion of competition has largely been confined to its narrow economic meaning this book opens up competition for the study of social scientists its central message is that while competition seems ubiquitous it should not be taken for granted or be naturalized as an inevitable aspect of human existence its emergence maintenance and change are based on institutions and organizational efforts and a central challenge for social science is to learn more about these processes and their outcomes with the use of a novel definition of competition more fundamental questions can be addressed than merely whether or not competition works how is competition constructed and by whom which behaviours result from competition what are its consequences can competition be removed and how do these factors vary with the object of competition be it money attention status or other scarce and desired objects this book investigates these and more questions in studies of competition among and within schools universities multinational corporations auditors waste disposal firms fashion designers and more
