contributed essays on works from africa bangladesh india new zealand and the west indies corporate social responsibility csr is steadily moving from the margins to the mainstream across the spectrum of private companies ngos and the public sector it has grown from being a concept embraced by a small number of companies such as the body shop in the early 1990s to a widespread global movement at its weakest level it is represented by a few philanthropic gestures by organizations but when applied in its most complete form it can steer the organization or sector to deliver a fully fledged system wide multi stakeholder operation accompanied by multiple types of certification for the first time a book brings together key issues relating to csr as they apply to different aspects of business it is not another generalist title about csr michael hopkins a leading expert in the field is joined by a number of outstanding contributors to the book to explain how csr has evolved since the 1990s and to offer ground breaking insights and practical and specific applications of the concept for example mervyn king explains integrating reporting deborah leipzig looks at the laws and standards for csr branding and the supply chain george starcher provides a framework for socially responsible restructuring and adrian henriques explores social accounting and stakeholder dialogue the laws and legislation in pakistan related to religious offences are intended to protect all religious communities but have also become a significant threat to communities of religious minorities who are vulnerable to false accusation violent retribution outside of the judicial system and erroneous convictions that sometimes even lead to the death penalty what is not well known is how these laws came about from originally being designed in chapter xv of the pakistan penal code to safeguard all religions of british india dr f a nazir places the discussion of offences relating to religion in the historical context of the south asian subcontinent the institution of penal codes in british india during the colonial period and developments in legislation after 1947 independence and the creation of the state of pakistan and in postcolonialism dr nazir s historical and legal analysis demonstrates how these laws affect indigenous christian communities and other religious minorities including muslim groups nazir s thorough and rigorous historical research brings important understanding and reflection to contemporary religious laws religious rights and multi faith society in pakistan this study analyses the exceptional narratives of five south asian women writers who uncover hidden manifestations of male violence against women their vehement struggle for the attention on gender based violence is transferred into literary representations that give the impression of an avalanche of feelings impatiently waiting to be transformed into words after a long endured silence in analysing the possibilities and consequences of disrupting the silence on male violence this study discusses the costs and the chances of success of such a non conformist endeavour this collection intervenes in key areas of feminist scholarship and activism in contemporary south asia particularly india pakistan bangladesh and sri lanka while asking how this investigation might enrich feminist theorizing and practice globally this book is first part of the 3 volume set focusing on basic and advanced methods for using microbiology as an entrepreneurial venture this book deals with the islamic criminal law olaf köndgen offers the most extensive bibliography on islamic criminal law ever compiled the object of the study of humanities discusses the grounding and present orientation of the humanities in the midst of an epistemological crisis acknowledging the impossibility of reaching an abstract synthesis of the humanistic studies the book exhibits the internal diversity of its disciplines literary studies assyriology psychology postcolonial studies philology etc a non systematic non synthetic approach is proposed that nonetheless claims a certain unity of discourse as it responds to the suggestion that it is possible to speak of the humanities as a concept with its own internal coherence this book provides in depth comparative analysis of how religious penal clauses have been developed and employed within asian common law states and the impact of such developments on constitutional rights by examining the theoretical and conceptual underpinnings of religious offences as well as interrogating the nature and impact of religious penal clauses within the region it contributes to the broader dialogue in relation to religious penal clauses globally whether in countries which practise forms of secular or religious constitutionalism asian practice is significant in this respect given the centrality of religion to social life and indeed in some jurisdictions to constitutional or national identity providing rigorous studies of common law jurisdictions that have adopted similar provisions in their penal code the contributors provide an original examination and analysis of the use and development of these religious clauses in their respective jurisdictions they draw upon their insights into the background sociopolitical and constitutional contexts to consider how the inter relationship of religion and state may determine the rationale and scope of religious offences these country by country chapters inform the conceptual examination of religious views and sentiments as a basis for criminality and the forms of harm that attract legal safeguards several chapters examine these questions from a historical and comparative perspective considering the underlying bases and scope as well as evolving objectives of these provisions through these examinations the book critically interrogates the legacy of colonialism on the criminal law and constitutional practice of various asian states existence of the freedom to read write print publish discuss debate and dispute creative writing and dissident writing in india autism spectrum
