this book interrogates the various manifestations of rival systems of justice in the plays and films of martin mcdonagh in analysis informed by the critical writings of michael j sandel steven pinker julia kristeva and in particular amartya sen on violence justice equality and the law in mcdonagh s works failures to investigate adequately criminal actions are matched by multiple forced confessions and umpteen miscarriages of justice the author explores mcdonagh s creative worlds as ones where distinctions between victim and perpetrator and guilt and innocence are precarious where the burden of truth seldom reaches the threshold of beyond reasonable doubt and where the punishments and rewards of justice are applied randomly this project considers the abject nature of justice in mcdonagh s writing with the vast implications of justice being fragile suspect piecemeal deviant haphazard and random tentative forms of justice are tempered and then threatened by provocative anarchic and abject humour as the author argues mcdonagh s writing cleverly circulates rival making the stage is a collection of essays that examines the role of theatre drama and performance in contemporary culture a culture that is growing increasingly technological and isolated seemingly at odds with the very nature of theatre a collaborative and sometimes very primitive art form through the course of these essays it is clear that theatre not only survives some of the challenges of the day but even defines discussions particularly political ones which are prohibited by an increasingly manipulated media the essays from a diverse group of theatre scholars examine the mechanics of theatre from space to sound to the use of technology the role of women in creating theatre
