Argumentation in Science Education 2007-12-06 argumentation mining is an application of natural language processing nlp that emerged a few years ago and has recently enjoyed considerable popularity as demonstrated by a series of international workshops and by a rising number of publications at the major conferences and journals of the field its goals are to identify argumentation in text or dialogue to construct representations of the constellation of claims supporting and attacking moves in different levels of detail and to characterize the patterns of reasoning that appear to license the argumentation furthermore recent work also addresses the difficult tasks of evaluating the persuasiveness and quality of arguments some of the linguistic genres that are being studied include legal text student essays political discourse and debate newspaper editorials scientific writing and others the book starts with a discussion of the linguistic perspective characteristics of argumentative language and their relationship to certain other notions such as subjectivity besides the connection to linguistics argumentation has for a long time been a topic in artificial intelligence where the focus is on devising adequate representations and reasoning formalisms that capture the properties of argumentative exchange it is generally very difficult to connect the two realms of reasoning and text analysis but we are convinced that it should be attempted in the long term and therefore we also touch upon some fundamentals of reasoning approaches then the book turns to its focus the computational side of mining argumentation in text we first introduce a number of annotated corpora that have been used in the research from the nlp perspective argumentation mining shares subtasks with research fields such as subjectivity and sentiment analysis semantic relation extraction and discourse parsing therefore many technical approaches are being borrowed from those and other fields we break argumentation mining into a series of subtasks starting with the preparatory steps of classifying text as argumentative or not and segmenting it into elementary units then central steps are the automatic identification of claims and finding statements that support or oppose the claim for certain applications it is also of interest to compute a full structure of an argumentative constellation of statements next we discuss a few steps that try to dig deeper to infer the underlying reasoning pattern for a textual argument to reconstruct unstated premises so called enthymemes and to evaluate the quality of the argumentation we also take a brief look at the other side of mining i e the generation or synthesis of argumentative text the book finishes with a summary of the argumentation mining tasks a sketch of potential applications and a necessarily subjective outlook for the field

Argumentation in Higher Education 2009-09-10 argumentative style discusses the various ways in which the defence of a standpoint is given shape in argumentative discourse in this innovative study the new notion argumentative style introduced for this purpose is situated in the theoretical framework of the pragma dialectical approach to argumentation this means that the choices involved in utilising a particular argumentative style do not only concern the presentational dimension but also the topical selection and the audience adaptation of the strategic manoeuvring taking place in the discourse in identifying the functional variety of the argumentative styles utilised in the political the diplomatic the legal the facilitatory the academic and the medical domain the point of departure is that these argumentative styles manifest themselves in the discourse in the argumentative moves that are made the dialectical routes that are chosen and the strategic considerations that are brought to bear

Perspectives in Controversy 2002 this book is concerned with the evaluation of natural argumentative discourse and in particular with the language in which arguments are expressed it introduces a systematic procedure for the analysis and assessment of arguments which is designed to be a practical tool and may be considered a pseudo algorithm for argument evaluation the first half of the book lays the theoretical groundwork with a thorough examination of both the nature of language and the nature of argument this leads to a definition of argumentation as reasoning expressed within a procedure which itself yields the three frames of analysis used in the evaluation procedure process reasoning and expression the second half begins with a detailed discussion of the concept of fallacy with particular attention on fallacies of language their origin and their effects a new way of looking at fallacies emerges from these chapters and it is that conception together with the understanding of the nature of argumentation described in earlier sections which ultimately provides the support for the comprehensive assessment procedure for natural argumentation the first two levels of this innovative procedure are outlined while the third that dealing with language and involving the development of an informal argument semantics is fully described the use of the system and its power of analysis are illustrated through the evaluation of a variety of examples of argumentative texts
