excerpt from a practical introduction to french phonetics for the use of english speaking students and teachers in the revision that modern language teaching has undergone during the last quarter of a century two facts have been firmly established first that the pronunciation of a modern foreign language should be taught with great care from the outset and secondly that pronunciation can neither be taught nor learned to the best advantage without the aid of phonetics there is moreover to use the words of dr breul a growing conviction that the teaching of modern languages in our secondary schools should henceforth as a rule not be entrusted to foreigners but to duly qualified english men and women but whether the language he teaches be his native speech or not the teacher can no longer afford to dispense with a phonetic training for however successful he may be without the aid of phonetics he can always improve his results with such aid especially is this true when it is his lot to teach french to english speakers about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of
