carbon cities it examines how ideas on building eco cities and low carbon cities travel from nation to nation how they are adopted in the chinese administrative context and what role inter scalar actors play in getting the ideas transferred translated and operationalized on the ground offering an overarching theoretical framework that incorporates all urban sustainability experiments in china the book conducts a comprehensive analysis of the master plans of these new towns and summarizes the normative transition targets of sustainable urban experiments it explores how they differ from each other and how they influence transition dynamics in practice by examining four eco and low carbon new towns deemed representative of current major approaches to sustainability transition management in china the book provides a detailed depiction of generic transition management and explains the different transitional trajectories for each type of sustainable urban experiment it demonstrates how subnational level and city level transitions mediate the national transition through a thorough inquiry into inter scalar dynamics institutional arrangements and techno social innovations in sustainable urban experiments the book links generalized transition rules and specific contexts to present a full view of the challenges failures and territorial problems of eco and low carbon new towns this book makes a novel contribution to the study of chinese urbanization by revisiting issues and problems of contemporary urban china the reflection on these urban issues will provide implications to policymakers professionals and the common reader interested in the future sustainable urbanism in china supervision of local government discusses the role of national and provincial governments in supervising the functions of local government the book analyses the legal status of local government which is entrenched and protected by the constitution and examines the powers of the national and provincial governments to supervise local government supervision of local government explores international practices in the supervision of local government and investigates general trends in the supervision of selected municipalities in south africa shortcomings inconsistencies and irregularities in the supervision of local government are identified the book discusses the concept of supervision as it relates to local government in its broad sense which includes monitoring intervening in and supporting local government supervision of local government also explores the manifestation of the principles of cooperative government and subsidiarity in the supervision of local government by national and provincial governments cooperative government requires that the other spheres of government intervene in local government to assist municipalities in managing their own affairs while the principle of subsidiarity requires that services should be rendered at the lowest possible level of government thus the national and provincial spheres have a duty to support the local sphere of government in fulfilling this duty and this duty back cover local government in action
