writer identity and the teaching and learning of writing is a groundbreaking book which addresses what it really means to identify as a writer in educational contexts and the implications for writing pedagogy it conceptualises writers identities and draws upon empirical studies to explore their construction enactment and performance focusing largely on teachers identities and practices as writers and the writer identities of primary and secondary students it also encompasses the perspectives of professional writers and highlights promising new directions for research with four interlinked sections this book offers nuanced understandings of how writer identities are shaped and formed insights into how classroom practice changes when teachers position themselves as writers alongside their students new understandings of what this positioning means for students identities as writers and writing pedagogy and illuminating case studies mapping young people s writing trajectories with an international team of contributors the book offers a global perspective on this vital topic and makes a new and strongly theorised contribution to the field viewing writer identity as fluid and multifaceted this book is important reading for practising teachers student teachers educational researchers and practitioners currently undertaking postgraduate studies contributors include teresa cremin terry locke sally baker josephine brady diane collier nikolaj elf ian eyres theresa lillis marilyn mckinney denise morgan debra myhill mary ryan kristin stang chris street anne whitney and rebecca woodard this book brings together in one volume a selection of the best articles that have appeared in the mediterranean journal of educational studies whose first issue appeared in 1996 each chapter highlights challenges faced by education systems across the region communicating science is an ideal introduction for anyone who wants to learn about the relationship between science the media and the public international financial reporting standards a framework based perspective links broad concepts and general accounting principles to the specific requirements of ifrs to help students develop and understand the judgments required in using a principle based standard although it is still unclear whether the us will adopt ifrs the global business environment makes it necessary for accounting students and professionals to be bilingual in both us gaap and ifrs this comprehensive textbook offers a clear presentation of the concepts underlying ifrs a conceptual framework to guide students in interpreting and applying ifrs rules a comparison between ifrs and us gaap to develop students understanding of the requirements of each standard real world examples and case studies to link accounting theory to practice while also exposing students to different interpretations and applications of ifrs end of chapter material covering other aspects of financial reporting including international auditing standards international ethics standards and corporate governance and enforcement as well as emerging topics such as integrated accounting sustainability and social responsibility accounting and new forms of financial reporting burton jermakowicz have crafted a thorough and extensive tool to give students a competitive edge in understanding and applying ifrs a companion website provides additional support for both students and instructors the 34 scenarios that make up this book are based upon real life teacher trainee issues they are designed to stimulate analysis of those issues to help the formulation of possible approaches to deal with them and to promote reflection on the role of the mentor as a practitioner advisor critical friend and assessor there is no single solution to each issue but the material prompts an in depth discussion of what the issues are and a consideration of how to manage the complex set of factors towards a resolution what is it like inside a soviet school james muckle spent the autumn of 1988 teaching in moscow and leningrad schools and this book is about the pupils and teachers disciplinary perspective on learning and teaching on the focus on the and emerging based technologies special attention to conducting educational research on line emphasis on the social and psychological context analyses of effective based learning resources firmly grounded in contemporary psychological research and theory this study untangles the complex interplay of individual and contextual factors shaping cross national differences in horizontal and vertical occupational sex segregation it relates the individual factors affecting occupational decisions to the broader social and economic context within a given society following this approach stephanie steinmetz provides a comprehensive overview of the development and causes of cross national differences in occupational sex segregation she offers insights into the positioning of 21 eu members states particularly of former cce countries based on advanced multi level models the study shows that institutional factors such as the organization of educational systems post industrial developments social policies and the national gender culture play a crucial role in shaping sex segregation processes apart from individual factors the author clarifies that a distinct set of institutional factors is relevant to each of the two dimensions of occupational sex segregation and that these factors operate in different directions some reduce horizontal segregation while at the same time aggravating the vertical aspect finally the study assesses the empirical findings from a political perspective by addressing the future contextual challenges of eu member states seeking to attain higher gender equality on the labour market this book focuses on game theory approaches utilized on various domains viz iot blockchain and their applications to biomedical and healthcare services the book bridges the gap between radiologists and artificial intelligence ai driven automated systems by investigating
