State Ideology and Language in Tanzania 2022-03-10 for more than fifty years a dynamic modern literature has been developing in the kiswahili language the political weight that kiswahili carries as the emerging national and pan national language of many east african countries places this literature much of it in the form of novels at the centre of heated literary debates on the social function of literature in the context of rapid global social change garnier provides new insights into the swahili novel form with all its vibrancy and capacity for experimentation its obsession with social issues relates to larger all pervasive political debates running through east africa in its press its streets its public and private places the novels both record and provoke these debates based on the study of more than 175 swahili novels by almost 100 authors garnier brings to light a body of work much neglected by african literary critics but which looks outwards to the wider world xavier garnier teaches african literature at the universit paris 3 sorbonne nouvelle and is former director of the centre d'etudes des nouveaux espaces littéraires universit paris 13

Tanzania inavyojitawala 1971 when analyzed in multilingual contexts english is often treated as an entity that is separable from its linguistic environment it is often the case however that multilinguals use english in hybrid and transcultural ways this book explores how multilingual east africans make use of english as a local resource in their everyday practices by examining a range of domains including workplace conversation beauty pageants hip hop and advertising drawing on the bakhtinian concept of multivocality the author uses discourse analysis and ethnographic approaches to demonstrate the range of linguistic and cultural hybridity found across these domains and to consider the constraints on hybridity in each context by focusing on the cultural and linguistic bricolage in which english is often found the book illustrates how multilinguals respond to the tension between local identification and dominant conceptualizations of english as a language for global communication
