Houses 1977

thirty of the world s leading architects including norman foster thom mayne tod williams and billie tsien talk about the houses they designed for themselves over the past decade what inspired them what were the constraints how did their concepts take shape michael webb explores the creative process and traces the influence of architects houses over the past two hundred years from jefferson s monticello to the creations of charles and ray eames toyo ito and frank gehry texts images sketches and plans are interwoven to illustrate houses that differ widely in size material character and location there are urban infills rustic retreats experiments and fusions of new and old they all make a statement modest or ambitious and each reflects the personality and tastes of its owner these architects have accepted the challenge of doing something out of the ordinary turning constraints to advantage they give different answers to a crucial question how can a house enrich lives and its surroundings spacious or frugal refined or rough edged daring or reductive these adventurous dwellings will inspire other architects and everyone who would like to design or commission a house that is one of a kind

Houses Now:Living Style 2015-01-16

for modern architects experimentation with space and the house plan provides the most fertile area of innovation allowing them to push established boundaries and question received conventions in domestic design as we enter the 21st century the incorporation of greater flexibility into housing has become a matter of urgency the traditional notion of the family unit is being exploded small domestic groupings have become dispersed with the fragmentation of familites and more people choosing to live alone at the same time the pressure put on space by multiple marriages and extended families means that the requirements for our home are never still as they constantly expand and contract the conventional layout for suburban housing can no longer sustain or cater for changing social needs this architectural design title fully explores the concept of transformability in house design through a set of introductory essays by iain borden catherine croft james gallie dennis sharp stefan muthesius and miles glendinning the roots of this phenomenon are examined in 20th century design it is however through the eleven case studies of contemporary architects projects that the concept of transformability is stretched to its full it is revealed to mean many things the integration of technology into the home the use of modular systems to facilitate construction and planning and the development of complex devices for modifying and customising architectural space on a day to day basis
