flexibly designed for cs students needing math review also covers some advanced cutting edge topics running 120 pages and intended for grad students in the last chapter 8 this text fits senior year or intro grad course for cs and math majors building on comparative research in the u k and the u s a this is the first book focused specifically on transgender experiences within policing it examines the issues faced by the transgender community within policing and explores how gender and the non conformity of it is perceived within police cultures moreover it provides an on going critique of the queer criminology movement and why it is crucial to policing studies emphasising the specific importance of transgender issues therein this empirical book provides qualitative data from american officers and english and welsh constables on transgender police the following research questions are addressed what are the perceptions of cisgender officers towards transgender officers and what are the consequences of these perceptions what are the occupational experiences and perceptions of officers who identify as transgender within policing finally what are the reported positive and negative administrative issues that transgender individuals face within policing the author concludes by discussing the empirical theoretical and policy contributions of this research and offers some final thoughts on policy recommendations and directions for future research a strong contribution to the literature in critical criminology and queer criminology this book will also be of interest to those in the fields of gender studies sociology public administration management studies and policing studies the word addiction these days is used to refer to a chronic condition where there is an unhealthily powerful motivation to engage in a particular behaviour this can be driven by many different factors physiological psychological environmental and social if we say that it is all about x we miss v w y and z so some people think addicts are using drugs to escape from unhappy lives feelings of anxiety and so on many are some people think drugs become addictive because they alter the brain chemistry to create powerful urges that is often true others think that drug taking is about seeking after pleasure often it is some take the view that addiction is a choice addicts weigh up the pros and cons of doing what they do and decide the former outweigh the latter yet others believe that addicts suffer from poor impulse control that is often true and so it goes on when you look at the evidence you see that all these positions capture important aspects of the problem but they are not complete explanations neuroscience can help us delve more deeply into some of these explanations while the behavioural and social sciences are better at exploring others we need a model that puts all this together in a way that can help us decide what to do in different cases should we prescribe a drug give the person some tender loving care put them in prison or what theory of addiction provides this synthesis the first edition was well received throughout the book the reader is exposed to a vast number of useful observations the theoretical aims are timely refreshing ambitious and above all challenging it opens up a new way of looking at addiction and has the potential to move the field of addiction a considerable leap forward thus we wholeheartedly would like to recommend the book for students as well as scholars read and learn nordic studies on alcohol and drugs the book provides a comprehensive review of existing theories over 30 in all and this synthesis of theories constitutes an important contribution in and of itself west is to be commended for his synthesis of addiction theories that span neurobiology psychology and social science and for his insights into what remains unexplained addiction this new edition of theory of addiction builds on the first including additional theories in the field a more developed specification of prime theory and analysis of the expanding evidence base with this important new information theory of addiction will continue to be essential reading for all those working in addiction from student to experienced practitioner as urged above read and learn the purpose of this text is to introduce the field of communication to students who may have little or no background in communication theory the three overriding goals of the book are to help students understand the pervasiveness of theory in their lives to demystify the theoretical process and to help students become more systematic and critical in their thinking about theory detailed step by step introduction to the theoretical foundations of strings and branes essential reading for graduate students and researchers much has changed since publication of the first edition of this established text in the sociology of religion revised and expanded this edition emphasizes new patterns of religious change and conflict emerging in the united states in the latter part of the twentieth century leading scholars describe and analyze developments in five main areas the fundamentalist and evangelical revival challenge and renewal in mainline churches spiritual innovation and the so called new age women s movements and issues and their impact and politics and civil religion chapters include an examination of religious movements responses to aids christian schools quasi religions healing rites and goddess worship recruitment of women to charismatic and hassidic groups televangelists and the christian right racist rural populism contemporary mormonism and its growth cults and brainwashing jonestown dissidence in the catholic church and trance channeling among other topics a new introductory chapter by the editors establishes an integrating framework in terms of three themes increasing conflict and controversy associated with american religion increasing focus on various forms of power in american religion and challenges to models of secularization and modernization inherent in religious revival innovation and politicization a concluding chapter by the editors looks at new trends and assesses their possible impact in coming years like its predecessor this outstanding collection is a significant contribution to the literature as well as a valuable resource for the classroom poststructuralism and critical theory s second generation major themes and developments in a period that brought continental philosophy to the forefront of scholarship in a variety of humanities and social science disciplines and that set the agenda for philosophical thought on the continent and elsewhere from the 1960s to the present focusing on the years 1960 1984 the volume examines the major figures associated with poststructuralism and the second generation of critical theory the two dominant movements that emerged in the 1960s althusser foucault deleuze derrida lyotard irigaray and habermas influential thinkers such as serres bourdieu and rorty who are not easily placed in standard histories of the period are also covered beyond this thematic essays engage with issues as diverse as the nietzschean legacy the linguistic turn in continental thinking the phenomenological inheritance of gadamer and ricoeur the influence of psychoanalysis the emergence of feminist thought and a philosophy of sexual difference the renewal of the critical theory tradition and the importation of continental philosophy into literary theory first published in 2006 this volume provides the first in depth analysis of the place of visual representations within the process of decolonisation during the period 1945 to 1970 the chapters trace the way in which different visual genres art film advertising photography news reports and ephemera represented and contributed to the political and social struggles over empire and decolonisation during the mid twentieth century the book examines both the direct visual representation of imperial retreat after 1945 as well as the reworkings of imperial and racial ideologies within the context of a transformed imperialism while the book engages with the dominant archive of artists exhibitions newsreels and films it also explores the private images of the family album as well as examining the visual culture of anti colonial resistance introduction to population ecology 2nd edition is a comprehensive textbook covering all aspects of population ecology it uses a wide variety of field and laboratory examples botanical to zoological from the tropics to the tundra to illustrate the fundamental laws of population ecology controversies in population ecology are brought fully up to date in this edition with many brand new and revised examples and data each chapter provides an overview of how population theory has developed followed by descriptions of laboratory and field studies that have been inspired by the theory topics explored include single species population growth and self limitation life histories metapopulations and a wide range of interspecific interactions including competition mutualism parasite host predator prey and plant herbivore an additional final chapter new for the second edition considers multi trophic and other complex interactions among species throughout the book the mathematics involved is explained with a step by step approach and graphs and other visual aids are used to present a clear illustration of how the models work such features make this an accessible introduction to population ecology essential reading for undergraduate and graduate students taking courses in population ecology applied ecology conservation ecology and conservation biology including those with little mathematical experience the classical economists revisited conveys the extent diversity and richness of the literature of economics produced in the period extending from david hume s essays of 1752 to the final contributions of fawcett and cairnes in the 1870s d p o brien thoroughly updates rewrites and expands the vastly influential work he first published in 1975 the classical economists in particular he sets out to make clear the shaping of a comprehensive vision of the working of an open economy building on the great work of adam smith in wealth of nations a development that was substantially affected by the contributions of david ricardo he shows that the classical literature was in fact the work of a host of thinkers from a wide range of backgrounds covering the intellectual roots of the classical literature and its methodological approaches and the developed theories of value distribution money trade population economic growth and public finance and examining the classical attitudes toward a rich variety of policy issues the classical economists revisited considers not only the achievements of the classical writers but also their legacy to the later development of economics a seminal contribution to the field this book will be treasured for many years to come by economists historians of economics instructors and their students and anyone interested in the sweeping breadth and enduring influence of the classical economists vols for 1911 13 contain the proceedings of the helminthological society of washington issn 0018 0120 1st 15th meeting a vigorous call to arms to reignite american citizenship at home and restore unapologetic american leadership abroad through the timeless lens of roosevelt s citizenship in a republic speech by the fox news contributor and decorated veteran pete hegseth makes an

the world the practice of peacebuilding is beset with common dilemmas peace versus justice religious versus secular approaches individual versus structural justice reconciliation versus retribution and the harmonization of the sheer number of practices involved in repairing past harms progress towards resolving these dilemmas requires reforming institutions and practices but also clear thinking about basic questions what is justice and how is it related to the building of peace the twin concepts of reconciliation and restorative justice both involving the holistic restoration of right relationship contain not only a compelling logic of justice but also great promise for resolving peacebuilding's tensions and for constructing and assessing its institutions and practices this book furthers this potential by developing not only the core content of these concepts but also their implications for accountability forgiveness reparations traditional practices human rights and international law since the field of international relations was established almost a century ago many different theoretical approaches have been developed each offering distinctive accounts of the world why it has come to be the way it is and how it might be made a better place in this illuminating textbook leading ir scholar stephanie lawson examines each of these theories in turn from political realism in its various forms to liberalism marxism critical theory and more recent contributions from social theory feminism postcolonialism and green theory taking as her focus the major practical issues facing scholars of international relations today lawson ably shows how each theory relates to situations on the ground each chapter features case studies questions for discussion to encourage reflection and classroom debate guides to further reading and web resources the study of ir is a profoundly normative enterprise and each theoretical school has its strengths and weaknesses theories of international relations encourages a critical reflective approach to the study of ir theory while emphasising the many important and interesting things it has to teach us about the complexities and challenges of international politics today the theory of literary worlds has become increasingly important in comparative and world literatures but how are the often contradictory elements of eastern and western literatures to cohere in the new worlds such contact creates drawing on the latest work in philosophical logic and analytic asian philosophy this monograph proposes a new model of literary worlds that is best suited to comparative literature dealing with western and east asian traditions unlike much discussion of world literature anchored in north american traditions featured here is the transnational work of artists philosophers and poets writing in english french japanese and mandarin in the twentieth century rather than imposing sharp borders this book suggests that vague boundaries link eastern and western literary works and traditions and that degrees of distance can better help us to see the multiple dimensions that both distinguish and join together literary worlds east and west as such it enables us to grasp not only how east asian and western writers translate one another's works into their own languages and traditions but also how modern writers east and west modify their own traditions in order to make them fit in the new constellation of literary worlds brought about by the complex flow of literary information across twentieth century eurasia learning to rival tells the inside story of college and high school writers learning to rival to actively seek rival hypotheses and negotiate alternative perspectives on charged questions it shows how this interdisciplinary literate practice alters with the context of use and how in learning to rival in school and out students must often negotiate conflicts not apparent to instructors this study of the rival hypothesis stance a powerful literate practice claimed by both humanities and science initially posed two questions how does the rival hypothesis stance define itself as a literate practice as we move across the boundaries of disciplines and genres of school and community how do learners crossing these boundaries interpret and use the family of literate practices especially in situations that pose problems of intercultural understanding over the course of this project with urban teenagers and minority college students the rival hypothesis stance emerged as a generative and powerful tool for intercultural inquiry posing in turn a new question how can the practice of rivaling support the difficult and essential art of intercultural interpretation in education the authors present the story of a literate practice that moves across communities as well as the stories of students who are learning to rival across the curriculum learning to rival offers an active strategic approach to multiculturalism addressing how people negotiate and use difference to solve problems in the spirit of john dewey s experimental way of knowing it presents a multifaceted approach to literacy research combining contemporary research methods to show the complexity of rivaling as a literate practice and the way it is understood and used by a variety of writers as a resource for scholars teachers and administrators in writing across the curriculum studies writing program administration service learning and community based projects as well as literacy rhetoric and composition this volume reveals how learning a new literate practice can force students to encounter and negotiate conflicts it also provides a model of an intercultural inquiry that uses difference to understand a shared problem first published in 1992 routledge is an imprint of taylor francis an informa company this book has been replaced by introduction to addictive behaviors fifth edition isbn 978 1 4625 3922 2 musaicum books presents to you this unique collection designed and formatted to the highest digital standards and adjusted for readability on all devices content mary shelley frankenstein the mortal immortal john william polidori the vampyre bram stoker dracula the jewel of seven stars gaston leroux the phantom of the opera marjorie bowen black magic james malcolm rymer thomas peckett prest sweeney todd the demon barber of fleet street washington irving the legend of sleepy hollow charles dickens the mystery of edwin drood oscar wilde the picture of dorian gray edgar allan poe the tell tale heart the murders in the rue morgue the black cat henry james the turn of the screw the ghostly rental h p lovecraft the dunwich horror the shunned house algernon blackwood the willows a haunted island ancient sorceries théophile gautier clarimonde the mummy s foot richard marsh the beetle arthur conan doyle the hound of the baskervilles the silver hatchet joseph sheridan le fanu carmilla uncle silas ann radcliffe the mysteries of udolpho the italian m r james ghost stories of an antiquary a thin ghost and others wilkie collins the haunted hotel the devil s spectacles Émile erckmann alexandre chatrian the man wolf the waters of death amelia b edwards monsieur maurice the phantom coach mary e wilkins freeman the wind in the rose bush the shadows on the wall arthur machen the great god pan the terror william hope to transform apace flowing from the forces of deregulation privatization and globalization unleashed by economic reforms which began in late 1978 the dramatic scope of economic change in china is often counterposed to the apparent lack of political change as demonstrated by continued chinese communist party ccp rule however the ongoing dominance of the ccp belies the fact that much has also changed in relation to practices of government including how authorities and citizens interact in the management of daily life new mentalities of government in china examines how the privatization and professionalization of public service provision is transforming the nature of government and everyday life in the people s republic of china prc the book addresses key theoretical questions on the nature of government in china and documents the emergence of a range of new mentalities of government in china its chapters focus on areas such as clinical trials

The Classical Economists Revisited 1886 a richly transdisciplinary account of some fundamental characteristics of human societies and behavior in this book acclaimed economist herbert gintis ranges widely across many fields including economics psychology anthropology sociology moral philosophy and biology to provide a rigorous transdisciplinary explanation of some fundamental characteristics of human societies and social behavior because such behavior can be understood only through transdisciplinary research gintis argues individuality and entanglement advances the effort to unify the behavioral sciences by developing a shared analytical framework one that bridges research on gene culture coevolution the rational actor model game theory and complexity theory at the same time the book persuasively demonstrates the rich possibilities of such transdisciplinary work everything distinctive about human social life gintis argues flows from the fact that we construct and then play social games indeed society itself is a game with rules and politics is the arena in which we affirm and change these rules individuality is central to our species because the rules do not change through inexorable macrosocial forces rather individuals band together to change the rules our minds are also socially entangled producing behavior that is socially rational although it violates the standard rules of individually rational choice finally a moral sense is essential for playing games with socially constructed rules people generally play by the rules are ashamed when they break the rules and are offended when others break the rules even in societies that lack laws government and jails throughout the book gintis shows that it is only by bringing together the behavioral sciences that such basic aspects of human behavior can be understood

The Medical times and gazette 1892 this collection considers how religious identity interplays with other forms and contexts of identity specifically those related to sexual identity it asks how these intersections are formed negotiated and resisted across time and places including the uk europe north america australia and the global south questions around queer engagements in same sex marriages civil partnerships and other practices e g adoption have created a number of provoking stances and policy provisions but what remains unanswered is how people experience and situate themselves within sometimes competing or contradictory moments as religious queers who may be tasked with queering religion additionally the presumed paradoxes of marriage queer sexuality religion and youth combine to generate a noteworthy generational absence this leads to questions about where religious queers reside resist and relate experiences of intersecting religious and sexual lives in looking at interconnectedness this collection offers international contributions which bridge the contradictions in queering religion and in making visible religious queers it provides insight into older and younger people's understandings of religiosity queer cultures and religious groups a small but active religious minority in the us has received much attention for its anti gay political activity much less attention has been paid to the more positive supportive role that religious based groups play in e g providing housing education and political advocacy for queer youth queer methodologies and intersectional approaches offer a lens both theoretically and methodologically to uncover the salience of related social divisions and identities this collection is both innovative and sensitive to blended identities and their various enactments

Proceedings of the Royal Society 2017-02-28 all over the world the practice of peacebuilding is beset with common dilemmas peace versus justice religious versus secular approaches individual versus structural justice reconciliation versus retribution and the harmonization of the sheer number of practices involved in repairing past harms progress towards resolving these dilemmas requires reforming institutions and practices but also clear thinking about basic questions what is justice and how is it related to the building of peace the twin concepts of reconciliation and restorative justice both involving the holistic restoration of right relationship contain not only a compelling logic of justice but also great promise for resolving peacebuilding's tensions and for constructing and assessing its institutions and practices this book furthers this potential by developing not only the core content of these concepts but also their implications for accountability forgiveness reparations traditional practices human rights and international law

In the Arena 1901 since the field of international relations was established almost a century ago many different theoretical approaches have been developed each offering distinctive accounts of the world why it has come to be the way it is and how it might be made a better place in this illuminating textbook leading ir scholar stephanie lawson examines each of these theories in turn from political realism in its various forms to liberalism marxism critical theory and more recent contributions from social theory feminism postcolonialism and green theory taking as her focus the major practical issues facing scholars of international relations today lawson ably shows how each theory relates to situations on the ground each chapter features case studies questions for discussion to encourage reflection and classroom debate guides to further reading and web resources the study of ir is a profoundly normative enterprise and each theoretical school has its strengths and weaknesses theories of international relations encourages a critical reflective approach to the study of ir theory while emphasising the many important and interesting things it has to teach us about the complexities and challenges of international politics today

The Human Origins 2016-11-08 the theory of literary worlds has become increasingly important in comparative and world literatures but how are the often contradictory elements of eastern and western literatures to cohere in the new worlds such contact creates drawing on the latest work in philosophical logic and analytic asian philosophy this monograph proposes a new model of literary worlds that is best suited to comparative literature dealing with western and east asian traditions unlike much discussion of world literature anchored in north american traditions featured here is the transnational work of artists philosophers and poets writing in english french japanese and mandarin in the twentieth century rather than imposing sharp borders this book suggests that vague boundaries link eastern and western literary works and traditions and that degrees of distance can better help us to see the multiple dimensions that both distinguish and join together literary worlds east and west as such it enables us to grasp not only how east asian and western writers translate one another s works into their own languages and traditions but also how modern writers east and west modify their own traditions in order to make them fit in the new constellation of literary worlds brought about by the complex flow of literary information across twentieth century eurasia

Individuality and Entanglement 2014-01-14 learning to rival tells the inside story of college and high school writers learning to rival to actively seek rival hypotheses and negotiate alternative perspectives on charged questions it shows how this interdisciplinary literate practice alters with the context of use and how in learning to rival in school and out students must often negotiate conflicts not apparent to instructors this study of the rival hypothesis stance a powerful literate practice claimed by both humanities and science initially posed two questions how does the rival hypothesis stance define itself as a literate practice as we move across the boundaries of disciplines and genres of school and community how do learners crossing these boundaries interpret and use the family of literate practices especially in situations that pose problems of intercultural understanding over the course of this project with urban teenagers and minority college students the rival hypothesis stance emerged as a generative and powerful tool for intercultural inquiry posing in turn a new question how can the practice of rivaling support the difficult and essential art of intercultural interpretation in education the authors present the story of a literate practice that moves across communities as well as the stories of students who are learning to rival across the curriculum learning to rival offers an active strategic approach to multiculturalism addressing how people negotiate and use difference to solve problems in the spirit of john dewey s experimental way of knowing it presents a multifaceted approach to literacy research combining contemporary research methods to show the complexity of rivaling as a literate practice and the way it is understood and used by a variety of writers as a resource for scholars teachers and administrators in writing across the curriculum studies writing program administration service learning and community based projects as well as literacy rhetoric and composition this volume reveals how learning a new literate practice can force students to encounter and negotiate conflicts it also provides a model of an intercultural inquiry that uses difference to understand a shared problem
