this pocket guide has been designed to familiarize readers with the principles goals tools and techniques of the praxis framework it provides an overview of the praxis process models and management functions and an understanding of the interpersonal skills required of a p3 project program portfolio manager the content of this pocket guide is derived from the praxis framework org website which is available free of charge under a creative commons license apm the association for project management has also published the praxis framework praxis is a framework for the management of projects programs and portfolios p3m the praxis framework brings together a body of knowledge methodology competence framework and capability maturity model into a single integrated framework with a single structure and terminology no more need for mapping and translation between different guides there is no such thing as a typical project program or portfolio and praxis is not prescriptive in the way its components are applied the framework is designed to provide building blocks of the discipline of p3 management that can be tailored and assembled to suit all manner of different contexts the aim is to define the building blocks and is based on the concept of a functional analysis a key concept of praxis is that the dividing lines between projects programmes and portfolios are blurred some ventures will exhibit characteristics of all three the underlying principle is that the terms project programme and portfolio simply represent points on a continuum that is described by the complexity of the work being managed therefore wherever appropriate a function is described in terms of its general application and then by its adaptation to increasing complexity the knowledge section integrates with all the other sections of praxis each function describes the procedures tools and techniques that can be used in management processes in return the method section provides a structure for the use of the functions within the lifecycle the book develops a practical approach to public policy issues that have continued to be intractable because of a lack of emphasis on transcultural understanding sustained examples help to increase the readability and the accessibility of theory and methodology the key themes address the issue that management needs to be more systemic critical systemic praxis is the process whereby we find ways to work across discipline areas and sectoral areas in order to address complex social political economic and environmental problems the way we define and address problems depends on an ability to work with rather than within knowledge areas by introducing the notion of governance we can extend traditional management from an organisational context to an inter organisational context and locate governance as the goal for sustainable social and environmental justice the core aspects of praxis are respectful listening and dialogue to set up appropriate contexts for participatory design participatory designs based on participatory action research to map tacit and explicit knowledge of participants professional and ordinary citizens strategic decision making across discipline areas cultural contexts and knowledge areas action learning to transfer the policy and practice learnings mainstreaming the approach to governance in the social political economic and environmental sectors the book develops a systemic approach to public policy issues examples are used throughout to exemplify theory the integrated approach to policy and practice is ideally suited to addressing the socio economic and environmental issues in transversal ecocritical praxis theoretical arguments literary analysis and cultural critique patrick d murphy ph d utilizes ecocriticism and ecofeminism to develop his concept of transversal practice an interdisciplinary combination of theory and applied criticism he begins by explaining the necessity for cutting across disciplinary boundaries of all kinds in order to address the ecological dimensions of culture and literature the dialogical foundation of this orientation is elaborated through a consideration of the theories of mikhail bakhtin particularly in terms of the ethical responsibilities of the reader and critic murphy then takes up issues of identity and subject formation in relation to genetics embodiment and selfhood these same issues play out in the history of the aesthetic category of the sublime which the author critiques from an ecofeminist perspective following that he turns attention to cultural issues of consumption both at home and internationally looking particularly at postcolonial literature and forms of resistance to globalizations and agricultural land grabs resistance and postcolonial literature is further analyzed through consideration of two book length latin american poetic sequences one by pablo neruda and the other by ernesto cardenal switching from works focused on the present murphy turns his attention then to how these themes play out in the future oriented worlds of science fiction he concludes with two chapters that combine ecocritical cultural critique and economic analysis in studies of the destructive role of megadams particularly in asia and the impact of the combined threats of peak oil and climate change on one island s tourist economy the conclusion contains a discussion of further drivers of future ecocritical analysis traversing a wide range of examples literary cultural and economic this work fleshes out the benefits of an ethically grounded interdisciplinary ecocriticism
